Marion's Business District to be in Full Holiday Attire Early Next Week When Christmas Trees Are Scheduled to Go On Market

MARION'S business district will be practically in full holiday attire early next week when Christmas trees are scheduled to go on sale.

Shipments of trees are now on the way and may arrive before the close of this week, merchants stated today. It is not expected, however, that any will be placed on the market before Monday.

This prediction cannot be taken as absolutely accurate. The shipments may reach here ahead of schedule or possibly may arrive later than expected. But the fact remains that the city's annual supply is headed this way and that the cost of a tree can be jotted down in the family's holiday expense bill.

Prices will run approximately the same as last year, starting around 25 cents for the miniature trees used for table decorations and ranging up to about $2.50 for the larger sizes.

Merchants here indicate that they will keep the retail price down to this scale, although they are required to pay a small increase on their stock.

Trees are expected to go higher in price during the next few years due chiefly to steady depletion of the source of supply in Michigan, where most of the trees for the Marion market have been obtained in the past.

Last year many trees sold here came from Vermont and Canada and it is stated that the price is not far distant when the entire supply will have to be brought from these far-off points. This will add to shipping costs and consequently result in a higher market price.

Up until recent years, merchants say, practically all trees sold here came from Michigan.

OUT here men are interested in the weather. One man in the smoking room tells another "When you plant potatoes below the frost line they will rot coming up for three years. I plant mine below frost, and they are up for seven years." That interested the other man.

Bear down on the coal shore, all the flier with alcohol and get out the heavy blankets.

This advice was offered residents of Marion and central Ohio today as the United States Weather Bureau office in Columbus predicted that King Winter who took the stage last night would continue his act tonight, offering temperatures even lower than those recorded early this morning.

DEMOCRATS IN STATE MEETING

Preliminary Steps To Be Taken for Selection of "Favorite Son" Candidate

Columbus, Dec. 8.—Initial steps toward selection of Ohio's "favorite son" candidate for the Democratic nomination for president are scheduled to be taken at a joint meeting of the National Committee and three other committees.

A resolution, it was understood, will be introduced providing for a committee consisting of W. A. Julian, Cincinnati, Democratic National Committee member from Ohio; H. G. Brunner, Mansfield, chairman of the State Central Committee; and three other committee members.

The committee's report would embody recommendation of a "favorite son" candidate and proposed plans for nomination of candidates for delegates to the Democratic National Convention, to be held next summer.

Would Effect Compromise

Although Governor Donahay has announced that he is not a candidate for president and that he expects to retire to private life at the end of his present term as governor, friends of the governor today were endeavoring to reach a compromise agreement with anti-Donahay forces relative to selection of delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

If compromised, this plan would include the selection of former U. S. Senator Allen Conner, Cleveland, as "favorite son" candidate for president and the choosing of convention delegates who would swing in line for Donahay at the convention if some of the other states voted for Donahay in sufficient force to warrant such action.

Donahay supporters declared that, if nominated, the present governor of Ohio will not refuse to run for the presidency.

STAFF RENAMED BY CITY HEALTH BOARD

Dr. W. J. Weiser To Continue as Commissioner; Salaries To Be Same

Next year will see no change in the personnel of the city health department. The City Board of Health at its monthly meeting at city hall yesterday afternoon voted to retain the entire health staff including Dr. W. J. Weiser, health commissioner, Dr. J. C. Gruher, milk and meat inspector, C. M. Tobin, sanitary commissioner and Mrs. Esther Watson, clerk.

Officials will serve at the same salary as this year, the health commissioner receiving $2,400 a year, milk and meat inspector $2,400, the sanitary commissioner $1,800 and the clerk $900.

An application seeking permission to establish a hospital in connection with the clinic was presented to the board by Dr. F. C. Smith, 177 E. Church St. After some discussion it was voted by the board to place its approval on the proposition providing Dr. Smith complied with certain requirements provided by law, among them being an agreement that under no circumstances would amputations and surgical cases be confined to the same ward.

After obtaining approval of the local board, the application will then be presented to the state board of health, which, after making an investigation, will issue a formal permit. Plans also were made to visit the clinic on an inspection tour before approving the project.

C. M. Tobin served as clerk at the meeting of the board yesterday in the absence of Mrs. Esther Watson, who is on a 30-day leave of absence.

COUNTY AUDITOR IS HONORED AT SESSION

Named Member of Legislative Committee of State Association

Earl E. Thomas, Marion County auditor, was appointed a member of the legislative committee of the County Auditors' Association of Ohio at the annual meeting of the organization held Tuesday and Wednesday in Columbus.

Other members of the committee, which is one of the most important representing the state association, are John A. Lutz, chairman, Dayton; W. P. Hess, Cincinnati; E. A. Groubeaux, Greenville; John A. Zangerle, Cleveland; J. F. Ross, Cadiz; and W. C. Mills, Springfield.

Tentative arrangements have been made for holding the first meeting of the committee in January, when a program of work for the next year will be outlined. This committee will represent county auditors of the state in opposing or advocating proposed new legislation.

County Auditor Thomas and wife and Miss Edith Ebling, deputy auditor, returned home last night from Columbus, where Thomas and Miss Ebling attended all sessions of the two-day meeting as representatives of the local office.

J. C. Mong, auditor of Summit County, was elected president of the association for the coming year.

Ohio Sheriff Declares Mrs. West Broke Down After Long Grilling

Painesville, Dec. 8.—A murder, which for a time, threatened to develop into one of the most baffling mysteries confronting Lake County authorities in years, today had been solved, according to Sheriff Ed Rasmussen, through the confession of Mrs. Velma West, who, he said, finally broke down and admitted after four hours of continuous grilling last night, that she killed her husband, Thomas E. West, 29, during a fight in their little cottage on the narrow road, at Perry, five miles east of here.

Mrs. West, a slight girlish woman of 21 years, told Sheriff Rasmussen that she had killed her husband to death with a hammer, he said. Mrs. West said she committed the act in an insane rage Tuesday night about 8:30 o'clock, according to Rasmussen, and that following the murder, she took her husband's automobile and drove to her parent's home in East Cleveland, where she was arrested Wednesday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff E. H. Lamm and C. R. Coer of Lake County.

Following a quarrel which had been brewing all day Tuesday, she smashed her husband's head with a claw hammer and a table leg, Rasmussen said she told him, then found him dead and took his body home in a pool of blood and drove to Cleveland to attend a bridge party.

WILBUR HAND TAKES CASE TO GOVERNOR

Executive Clemency Sought for "Kid Brother" Arthur, Now in Jail

Columbus, Dec. 8.—Gov. Vic Donahay today had under consideration an appeal for Wilbur Hand, Toledo, for executive clemency on behalf of Hand's "kid brother," Arthur, Wilbur, at liberty under $25,000 bond, awaiting trial by the appellate court on his appeal, was recently convicted of participating in the $170,000 robbery of a Galion bank last summer. His brother, it was stated, was in the Galion jail, pending possible action by the grand jury on a similar charge.

Wilbur claimed that his brother and himself are innocent and that they were victims of a "frame-up" by a detective employed by the Ohio Bankers' association.

Although he did not get to see Donahay, Hand talked to J. A. Meek, chief of the governor's private secretary, and to C. H. Sisson, Donahay's special investigator.

FIVE-GAME SERIES

Michigan and Chicago Make Contract for Football Tilt

Chicago, Dec. 8.—The existence of a contract specifying a five-game football series, starting in 1930, between the Big Ten universities of Michigan and Chicago, was acknowledged today by Athletic Director A. A. Stagg of Chicago.

Stagg said the pact which calls for a resumption of gridiron hostilities with the Wolverines was formally agreed upon during the Big Ten meeting of coaches and directors here last week and was closed by two universities last Tuesday.

The first of the five games series will be played at Ann Arbor in 1930, Stagg said. The new arrangement, he explained, evolved from a mixup over Michigan-Harvard and Chicago-Princeton home and home games, scheduled for 1929 and 1930.

The sheriff consented and the boy was taken to the morgue. He entered the building solemnly, looked calmly at the body lying on a slab, and then turned his gaze towards other things in the room. He remained silent until he lay away again and displayed no emotion at any time.

HIGHWAY COST UP

Discussion Scheduled at Annual Good Roads Federation Meeting

Columbus, Dec. 8.—Discussion of the amounts of money that will be required for adequate highway construction and repair in Ohio during the next few years was the chief feature of the annual meeting of the Ohio Good Roads Federation here today.

Surveys made by the United States Bureau of Public Roads were used as a basis in making the estimates. Among those who are scheduled to address the meeting are: President Frank G. Harrison of Canton, W. R. Hopkins, city manager of Cleveland; H. G. McGhee, director of the Municipal Research Bureau, Akron; H. M. Sharp of Toledo, and several representatives of the Ohio State Highway Department and Ohio State University.

FLIERS TAKE TO AIR AGAIN FOR RECORD

Pond and Kingsford-Smith Seek New Endurance Mark on Coast

Municipal Airport, San Francisco, Dec. 8.—Flying a tri-motored Pinner plane, Lieut. George R. Pond, U. S. N., and Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian aviator, took the air at 8:55 a. m. in an attempt to break the world's record for sustained flight.

The plane carried 1,418 gallons of gasoline and 45 gallons of oil, sufficient fuel, according to the aviators, to keep them long enough to shatter the record.

The endurance record of 52 hours, 22 minutes and 21 seconds is held by German fliers.

RECORD COTTON CROP

Washington, Dec. 8.—The United States will have a cotton crop this year of 12,780,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, the crop reporting board of the Department of Agriculture estimated today. Ginnings last year amounted to 17,877,000 bales.

START FIGHT FOR NORRIS RESOLUTION

Seek To Abolish "Lame Duck" Sessions and Advance Inaugurations

Washington, Dec. 8.—Backers of the Norris resolution to change the date of presidential inaugurations from March 4 to Jan. 15 and abolish "lame duck" sessions of Congress today accepted the challenge of Speaker Longworth and launched a campaign for the amendment in the house.

Longworth has declared that the resolution was never brought to a vote in the house by leaders because of lack of sentiment for it. The resolution has passed the Senate three times.

Representative White, Republican of Kansas, and Representative Loefer, Democrat of Missouri, announced the formation of a bipartisan combination to roll up sentiment in the House.

White introduced a resolution for a constitutional amendment patterned after the Norris proposal and said that the committee on election of president, vice president and representatives, of which he is chairman, would hold extensive hearings on the question.

He proposes that the president shall take office in January after election in November, and a new session of Congress shall convene in January each year. Under the present system, many members of Congress serve in the three months "lame duck" session after defeat, and new members do not actually enter congress for 13 months after election.

WIND HITS COLUMBUS

Miniature Cyclone Unravels Buildings and Uproots Trees

Columbus, Dec. 8.—A miniature cyclone which hit the western part of this city and the suburbs, Linden, last night, uprooted trees, unraveled small buildings and shattered windows in a number of houses.

The most serious loss was suffered by Lambert Art Metal Inc., whose factory building collapsed when the storm was at its height. The damage was estimated at about $20,000. The new Linden Baptist Church which was under construction and had almost been completed also was badly damaged.

JOHN B. GUNDER WINS UNANIMOUS VERDICT

Jury Deliberates but 10 Minutes Over Suit Brought by Arthur C. Thompson

After 10 minutes' deliberation, the jury which heard the suit of Arthur C. Thompson against John B. Gunder, returned a verdict for the defendant. The verdict was signed by all 12 members of the jury.

Thompson asked judgment for $208.92, claiming that Gunder owed that amount as his share of the expense of contesting a suit brought by a Columbus bank for collection of promissory notes signed by Thompson, Gunder, and a third party. Gunder denied that he owed the money, asserting that he had dropped out of the note contest, proceeding after paying his full share of the expense up to that time.

The notes in question were given to the Robert C. Byers Co., a Columbus concern. The Byers company then used the notes as collateral security for a $1,000 loan and the bank then sought to collect from signers of the collateral.

Starts Life As Poor Boy; Sells Out For 23 Millions

In yesterday's trial, Homer E. Johnson appeared as attorney for Thompson and Gunder was represented by L. E. Myers.

Motion Filed

Motion for a new trial was filed in the court of common pleas yesterday in the suit of the Waddell-Ladies' Home trustees against Hayes Thompson, administrator of the estate of William Peters, and Fred L. Carhart, executor of the will of Olive S. Peters. The trustees were awarded judgment for $5,200 on a subscription made to the home by Mr. and Mrs. Peters, the verdict being returned following trial of the case Tuesday.

In the request for a new trial, the defendants cite 13 grounds for error in the court proceedings.

Suit Settled

The suit of Charles E. Schrad against Axel Hocker, in which the plaintiff sought judgment on an account, has been settled by agreement of the litigants. Judgment for $90 was awarded the plaintiff.

Suit Dismissed

The suit of James Salinas against Simon Hackworth, in which judgment for alleged damages in an automobile accident was sought, has been dismissed at costs of plaintiff.

Hearing Scheduled

Suit for damages and compensation amounting to $10,080, brought by William Savotta against William M. Laughman and Cora E. Laughman is scheduled for hearing before a jury in the court of common pleas, Friday. The plaintiff is a minor and the action was brought in his behalf by Joseph Savotta, designated as his next friend. The claim for damages is based on injuries alleged to have been received by the boy when hit by an automobile owned by the defendants.

The plaintiff is represented by the law firm of Carhart & Warner and the defendants by Guthrie, Strelitz & Guthrie.

Appointment

Jennie L. Hatfield has been appointed in probate court as administratrix of the estate of William E. Hatfield.

Concrete Roads Are Open All Year

There are a number of reasons why the mileage of Concrete Roads is steadily increasing, year by year.

Concrete highway pavement is not affected by weather. Rain only makes it stronger. Wind cannot blow it away. It can be built to carry any kind of traffic indefinitely, practically without repairs. Concrete roads are as good one time of the year as another.

Old Familiar Faces Are Beginning to Disappear From Silver Screen

For one reason or another, prominent movie stars are beginning to melt away. Among those who are seldom seen on the screen are top row, left to right: Anita Stewart, Betty Compson, Conway Tearle and Mae Murray; lower

TIME marches on! And nowhere is this more evident than in Hollywood, cradle of the jumping celluloids, where favorite of today is forgotten on the morrow.

The year 1928 will probably mark the passing of a record number of names—stars who have done much to make film history.

Famous Players have refused to exercise a costly option on Pola Negri's services. Pola responded with a "nervous breakdown." She's trying to shake off her pique in Hawaii. But the chances are that Princess Mdivani's just about through with American flicker fans.

So's her sister-in-law, Anita Stewart. (Please don't ask us how you pronounce it.) Mae has gone into vaudeville—and you know what that means, too!

Then there's Betty Compson. Should have been one of the biggest drawing cards of 'em all, but never seemed to click. She's not been heard from lately, and it's understood her career is just about ended.

Charlie Ray lost everything but the initials on his pajamas when he tried producing on his own hook. He made a stab at a comeback, but now he's in New York, and it's said that he will be seen on the "legitimate" stage. And you know what that means, too!

Viola Dana's another who's gone from Hollywood to vaudeville. And Lew Cody's "all washed up," too, according to gossip.

Betty Compson is another of the former headliners from whom we've been hearing little during the last three years, and Conway Tearle, not so long ago the most sought-after leading man of them all, is reported to be "in wrong" with the producers because of his stand on the attempted slaying of pay envelopes. 'Tis said that Tearle can't get any more contracts. At any rate, he hasn't been knocking the flappers dead with his profile since the historic squabble.

Yes, there are others—but these eight will, in all probability, be more or less mourned by millions of people who were their ardent admirers.

MANSFIELD MAN IS STEEL MERGER HEAD

Consolidated Company Will Have 61 Rolling Mills, with 400,000-Ton Capacity

Youngstown, Dec. 8.—W. H. Davey, president of the Mansfield Sheet and Tin Plate Co., has been elected president of the consolidation of six northern Ohio steel rolling mill companies, it was learned here today. Names of other officers have not as yet been announced.

The merged company will have 61 rolling mills with a capacity of 400,000 tons yearly, including the Falcon Steel, Thomas Steel and Wadell Steel of Niles; Mansfield Sheet and Steel; Empire Rolling Mill, Cleveland; and Ashtabula Steel of Ashtabula. Stockholders today were being advised of the decision of directors and asked for approval. More than 5,000 workers are employed in the six plants. Four 100-ton open hearths at Mansfield are the only steel producers in the merger, it was said.

REPORT PRESENTED BY RETIRING NURSE

264 Pupils at Mark Street and Forest Lawn Schools Examined During November

Examination of 264 pupils in the Mark Street and Forest Lawn Schools with 197 calls on patients in various parts of the city during November were included in the activities of Mrs. Mary Katherine Hane, whose services as city health nurse expired on Dec. 1, according to her report for the month made at the monthly meeting of the board of health at city hall yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Hane, who had been city nurse since the organization of the present health department, tendered her resignation at the meeting of the board in November to become effective Dec. 1. She was succeeded by Miss Mabel Hastings.

Of the 264 children inspected during the month 159, Mrs. Hane said in her report, were suffering from defective teeth, 135 from bad tonsils, 61 were 10 per cent underweight, 51 had poor vision and 13 were suffering from glandular disorders. Her report also showed that 141 had received the Shik test and 22 vaccinated.

The retiring nurse also reported that, during the month she had taken five children to the orthopedic clinic at Columbus and had taken one child to the children's hospital and had filled out commitment papers for one child to the orthopedic hospital, both at Columbus.

Miss Hastings, who took up her duties on the first of this month, will continue to work in conjunction with the Red Cross instead of out of the city health office, as was planned, it was said yesterday.

IRISH ASSAIL SHAW

See Nothing Witty About Writer's Mendacity Statement

London, Dec. 5.—The verbal broad cast upon the world waters recently by George Bernard Shaw concerning the "incorrigible mendacity" of Ireland, was back on his front doorstep today with a vengeance.

It took the form of a strong verbal attack against him, at a dinner given at the Irish Club, by Irishmen who saw nothing witty about another Irishman, famous or not, casting aspersions upon the name of Erin.

Lieutenant Colonel Granmored, president of the club, declared: "There is one man upon whom I would like to exercise my presidential prerogative of using the shillelagh. It is Shaw—an ill bird that fouls his own nest."

MISSIONARY MEET

Mrs. Emma Poppleton Entertains Members of Prospect Society

Prospect, Dec. 5.—Mrs. Emma Poppleton was hostess to the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, Wednesday afternoon, at her home on E. Waterst. She was assisted by Mrs. J. P. Lawrence. In the absence of the president and vice president, Mrs. W. M. Keller had charge of the business session. The meeting opened by singing "Jesus Is All the World to Me." Mrs. R. A. Wilcox had charge of the devotionals, reading Mark 28:19-20, with comment and prayer. She also read a letter from Mrs. W. P. Lufkin, district secretary of evangelism. Reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. J. M. Sites, and treasurer, Mrs. Nina Bensley. Mrs. E. M. Hazen, mite-box secretary, read a letter from Mrs. Blah of Ada, district mite-box secretary. Supply vouchers were reported and gifts contributed for the work at Ellis Island.

Mrs. Poppleton had charge of the program, which opened with a musical selection, "Silent Night." A reading was given by Mrs. J. P. Lawrence; Mrs. John Reynolds gave a scrapbook selection; Mrs. Tom Anson and Mrs. J. C. Cheney reviewed the third chapter of the text book, the chapter title being, "Christian Missions and Modern Industry." A leader, "Christmas in a Frontier Parsonage," was reviewed by Mrs. Poppleton, and enigmas were in charge of Mrs. Poppleton. After collection, the meeting was closed with the Lord's prayer. The hostess served dainty refreshments. The January meeting will be in charge of Mrs. J. M. Sites when the first opening of the mite-boxes will be held.

CLOSE RUM TRAIL

Hazardous Occupation for Bootlegger To Attempt Delivery from Montreal

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 5.—With the approach of the holiday season, orders were issued today by Maj. John A. Warner, superintendent of the state police, that the "bootleg trail," leading from Montreal to Albany and points west and south, must be kept tightly closed to rum runners.

Never since prohibition first went into effect has the famous trail been closed more tightly than it has been for the last few months, according to Major Warner.

"At no time since prohibition went into effect has it been as hazardous for a bootlegger to get a load of liquor down from Canada as it is now," Major Warner declared.

Close to 100 state troopers are patrolling the bootleg trail day and night keeping a sharp watch for rum-running cars.

DROP LEVEES ONLY POLICY

Cost for Minimum Expenditure of $296,400,000; System Revealed

Washington, Dec. 8.—President Coolidge today transmitted to Congress a bill which calls for a minimum expenditure of $296,400,000, and which authorizes the army engineers to drop levees.

The project upon which the war department has been at work since the disastrous deluge of last spring, providing a system of floodways, spillways and improved navigation channels, as well as strengthening of the levees and the breaking up of "levee banks" at congested points in the Mississippi river.

Proponents to impound flood waters at their source were found "too costly" and reforestation was recognized as being only "supplementary value." Mr. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of the army engineers, stated in the report that he believes it will take care of the future expansion to meet changing conditions. The project, he declared, "can be advantageously executed in approximately 10 years."

The essential features of the project are: Floodways from Cairo to New Madrid, from the Arkansas River to the Tennessee Basin, in the Red River, and from the Red through the Atchafalaya Basin to the Gulf of Mexico. These will relieve the main channel of the water it can not carry and lower the floods to stages at which the levees can carry them.

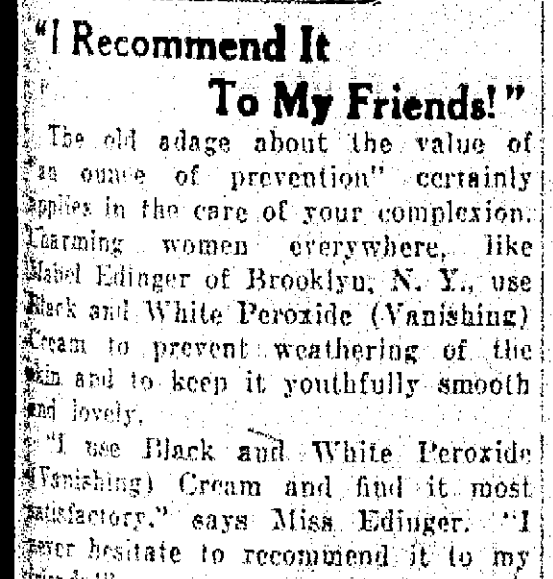

A controlled spillway to hold the levees down to safe stages at and near New Orleans.

Local setting back of the levees in the main river at bottle necks to increase its carrying capacity and reduce flood heights.

Greater protection against crevasses by strengthening the levees by reducing flood heights through the increased widths of channel afforded by floodways, spillways and set-backs and by gradually raising the levees where needed to meet predicted flood stages.

The progressive reversion of levee banks to protect the foundation of the levees and to stabilize the river both for flood control and navigation.

Improved navigation channels for river traffic, not less than 800 feet wide and nine feet deep, to be obtained by dredging and training work where necessary between Cairo and New Orleans.

"I Recommend It To My Friends!"

The old adage about the value of "an ounce of prevention" certainly applies in the case of your complexion. Tanning women everywhere, like Miss Edinger of Brooklyn, N. Y., use Black and White Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream to prevent weathering of the skin and to keep it youthfully smooth and lovely.

"I use Black and White Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream and find it most satisfactory," says Miss Edinger. "I never hesitate to recommend it to my friends."

The pure, snowy cream disappears instantly, leaving an invisible film of protection against the darkening, weathering effects of sun and wind, and preserving the natural, beauty-giving skin moisture. It whitens and refreshes the skin, too, and provides an all-day powder base.

Black and White Beauty Creations are of a quality acceptable to those who seek the best, at prices within the reach of all—25c and 50c.

It was selected in little more than an hour, breaking all records for trial of this nature.

Oh, No!
Flapper Just Walking Chemical Experiment, Professor Asserts

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The flapper of today is a walking chemical experiment—a synthetic substitute for nature—in the opinion of Prof. A. M. Low, distinguished British scientist and inventor.

Professor Low said today that his fellow scientists fully support a statement made by Dr. E. F. Armstrong, managing director of the British Dyestuffs Corporation, that the chemical industry is dependent largely upon the whims and fancies of the modern flapper.

"The flapper after all is chemistry's patron saint," said Professor Low. "She has rings on her fingers made of synthetic stones by chemists. She has rings on her toes—that is to say slight foot-wear—made of artificial skins. She wears mysterious underclothes, the materials of which are one of the greatest achievements of modern chemistry."

If we survey the flapper more in detail the very essence of her hair is perhaps synthetic and on her face are the fingerings of dye stuff products. Almost everything which the flapper displays to our admiring view, even to bracelets and bangles, is the work of the chemist.

After a talk with Professor Low the correspondent left with the impression that the modern girl is largely a combination of red lead oxide, petroleum, grease, kenna, cellulose products, paper and wood products, nitro acid and dyes.

"ONLY about 25 per cent of girls have naturally colored hair," added Professor Low. "The rest use henna or peroxide or other brightening washes and they are not ashamed of it. The flapper's face owes its red roses to red oxide of lead on lips and cheeks."

"Her dark eye lashes and brows are mainly evolved from the judicious use of lamp-black or carbon. Her face creams are largely extracts of petroleum. Her pink-tipped nails are covered with tinted celluloid."

REVEAL DETAILS OF BURNS SHADOWING

Second Real Day of Contempt Trial of Sinclair, Agency Under Way

Washington, Dec. 8.—Intimate details of the Burns Detective Agency's surveillance of the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy jury were scheduled to be revealed today as the second real day of the criminal contempt trial of Harry P. Sinclair and William J. Burns proceeded in the court of Justice Frederick L. Siddons, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Sinclair, Burns and four of their associates are standing trial as a result of Sinclair's admitted action in engaging the Burns Agency to maintain such a surveillance.

Charles G. Ruddy of Philadelphia, manager of the 15 operatives who kept the oil jury under watch while the government contends was "a close, intimate and improper surveillance," was to be again on the witness stand.

ATLANTIC CITY HOME OF VARE BOMBARDED

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 8.—Police today were investigating a burglary in the summer home of United States Senator-Elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania. The house is one of the show places of this section.

Police announced that the exact loss will not be known until Vare returns from Washington.

WOULD ARRANGE MEETING OF COOLIDGE AND CALLES

Mexico City, Dec. 8.—Reports are current in diplomatic circles today that efforts are being made to arrange a meeting between President Coolidge and President Calles. It is said that an invitation may be issued to President Coolidge to come to Vera Cruz or Tampico where he attends the Pan-American Congress in Havana in January.

SCHOOL SPEAKERS TO MEET AT GREEN CAMP

Annual Extemporaneous Contest Is Scheduled for Friday Night

Representatives from practically all of the county high schools are expected to take part in the extemporaneous speaking contest at Green Camp Friday night at 8 o'clock, it was announced at the office of County Superintendent C. B. Rayburn, this morning.

A meeting of the contestants will be held in the office of the county superintendent tonight, when they will draw the special phase of one of the five general subjects announced, on which they are to speak. In this way, each contestant will have 24 hours in which to prepare his speech.

The five general subjects are: Disarmament; American Foreign Relations; Flood Relief for Mississippi Valley; Campaign Expenditures and The Rural Church.

The judging, it was announced to a notice of the contest prepared by the committee, will be based on the following points: knowledge shown on the subject; logical arrangement of thought; clearness of exposition and platform delivery. The arbitrator will be a competent judge of extempore.

The winner will be awarded a silver cup for his school and in an addition a gold medal. Silver and bronze medals will be awarded as second and third prizes. The winning school will also be the host to next year's contestants.

The committee in charge of the contest is E. D. Maurice, chairman, N. D. Shumaker and K. W. Dovernier.

340 BOOKS PLACED AT CITY LIBRARY

Purchases for November Include 337 Volumes, Monthly Report Shows

During November, 340 new books were added to City Library shelves according to the monthly report of that institution submitted today by Miss Helen Kramer, librarian. Of that number, 337 books were added by purchase and three by binding.

The number of volumes in the library at the end of the month totaled 14,982, making a total of 18,761 books necessary. One hundred and fifty books were needed during the month.

Of the new books 132 were juvenile fiction; 144 juvenile class; 23, adult fiction, and 21, adult class. Total circulation for the month was 6,281 volumes, 3,831 adult fiction; 1,400 juvenile fiction; 511, adult class, and 490 juvenile class.

Registration increased from 5,647 to 5,686 borrowers during the month, 154 have registered in that length of time and 115 withdrawn.

Rev. H. F. Weckmuller To Address Pleasant Township Association

Rev. H. F. Weckmuller, pastor of the First Reformed church, of this city will be the speaker at the December meeting of the Pleasant Township Parent-Teachers Association which will be held in the auditorium at the school building tonight.

Other features of the program will be Christmas Carols led by Miss Alving and a social "get-acquainted" hour under the direction of the social committee. Refreshments will be served. Mrs. Jay Vaughan, is president of the association.

BRITISH CITIZENS SIGN "PEACE LETTER"

128,770 Men Pledge Themselves Against War and Use of Arms

London, Dec. 8.—"Peace letter" pledging 128,770 British citizens above the age of 16 to refuse to render military service in the event of war was presented to Premier Stanley Baldwin today by Arthur A. Ponsonby, Laborite member of Parliament and Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in the MacDonald Labor cabinet.

The document said in part: "We, the undersigned, being convinced that all disputes between nations are capable of settlement either through diplomatic negotiation or international arbitration, hereby solemnly declare that we refuse to support or render war service to any government which resorts to arms."

The ceremony took place at the premier's official residence, 10 Downing Street at noon.

CAGE PROSPECTS POOR AS DENISON STARTS DRIVE

Genville, Dec. 7.—Livingston coach of the Buckeye Athletic Association championship basketball team in 1927 started preparation for the 1928 season this week faced by the poorest prospects that he has had at the Baptist college in many a year. About fourteen athletes of known caliber reported for the initial practice and only three of these were lettermen in basketball. None of the three lettermen played regularly last year on the championship combination.

Denison will play an eighteen game schedule this year on the court including a barnstorming trip to Cincinnati.

FOUR VETERANS ON MT. UNION CAGE SQUAD

Alliance, Dec. 7.—A quartet of veterans of last year's team will probably bear the larger share of the burden against the Firestone Tire and Rubber quintet Thursday night, December 8, when the 1927 Mount Union College cage team gets into action for the first time this season. If each of the four lettermen receives a call to the position which each played last year, Captain Burke will go in at center. Mervyn at a forward position, Shaffer and Ball as guards.

An inventor has combined in one device a can opener, measuring cup and stopper to close openings in punctured cans.

SOUTHERN INCREASES DIVIDENDS ON STOCK

New York, Dec. 8.—Directors of the Southern Railway Co. passed the common stock of that company on an 8 per cent dividend today, when they declared a quarterly dividend of $2 a share, payable to stockholders on record Jan. 3. The stock previously paid $7 annually. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 was declared on the preferred stock.

LEAGUE MAY RULE IN TERRITORIAL DISPUTE

Polish and Lithuanian Arguments Presented at Council Session

Geneva, Dec. 8.—Formal intervention by the League of Nations in the Polish-Lithuanian territorial dispute to prevent the present diplomatic reach from growing into an actual clash was indicated by developments today.

Following rival pleas to the League Council delivered by Premier Auguste Vaitkevicius, of Lithuania, and Foreign Minister Zaleski, of Poland, and the appointment of Berchtold Van Blockland, of Holland as special commissioner, the Council continued its study of the dispute today.

It is expected that there will be no decision until after the arrival of President Pilsudski, of Poland, who is expected here tomorrow.

The Lithuanian delegation, in support of the allegation that Pilsudski is planning aggression against Lithuania, declare that they have received word from Kovno since their arrival here that the Polish troops on the Lithuanian frontier have been reinforced.

VARE FORCES ASKING FOR SECOND TRIAL

Pennsylvanian Would Lead Own Defense from Temporary Seat

Washington, Dec. 8.—The fight to gain a temporary senatorial seat for William S. Vare, Republican, of Pennsylvania, revolved itself today into a plea to the senate for a new trial of the Pennsylvania on the slush fund charges raised against his primary campaign.

The Vare forces pleaded with the senate to send Vare for the time being, so he might lead his own defense. They also demanded a new hearing for him before the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections, which is opposing further inquiry by the Reed-Spahn bill.

Senator McLean, Republican of Connecticut, opened the second day's debate with his plea.

NOBEL PRIZES AWARDED

London, Dec. 8.—The Nobel peace prizes for 1927 have been awarded to Prof. Ferdinand Buisson of France and Doctor Ludwig of Germany, a Central News dispatch from Oslo said today. The dispatch said the newspaper Aftenpost carried the information.

Worry is the only interest paid by those who borrow trouble.

$133,000 WILL BE RELEASED IN MARION

Christmas Savings Checks Issued by Loan Company; Banks Ready Friday

approximately $133,000 deposits will receive checks in the Christmas fund distribution.

Deposits in County.
In addition to the amounts in the local banks, several village banks in the county have Christmas savings departments and it is estimated that with these deposits added to those in the city, the county's holiday fund distribution will amount to approximately $150,000.

This year's total is one of the highest on record since the Christmas savings plan was first introduced here, about 10 years ago. The plan is gaining in popularity year after year, bankers state. Depositors are increasing the size of their accounts, the percentage of the larger amounts being much greater than in former years.

Bankers here state that the system not only provides the public with a convenient method of accumulating Christmas funds but is accomplishing a more important mission by promoting the habit of thrift.

Last year's Christmas Savings total in the city was approximately $131,300.

PUBLIC HEARING ON CORN BORER CALLED

Trux Will Meet Farmers Dec. 14 To Discuss Control Quarantine

Columbus, Dec. 8.—Charles V. Trux, director of agriculture, today announced that a public hearing will be held at his offices in the statehouse annex here on the afternoon of Dec. 14 for the purpose of considering the advisability of extending the European corn borer quarantine.

The proposed hearing, it was stated, will deal with the question of extending the quarantine so as to include all of the following counties: Allen, Ashland, Ashtabula, Auglaize, Carroll, Champaign, Columbiana, Coshocton, Crawford, Cuyahoga, Delaware, Delaware, Erie, Franklin, Fulton, Genesee, Hancock, Hardin, Harrison, Henry, Holmes, Huron, Jefferson, Knox, Lake, Licking, Logan, Lorain, Lucas, Mahoning, Marion, Medina, Mercer, Morrow, Ottawa, Paulding, Portage, Putnam, Richland, Sandusky, Seneca, Shelby, Stark, Summit, T有所, Tuscarawas, Union, Van Wert, Wayne, Williams, Wood and Wyandot Counties.

FORMER FAMOUS SINGER DIES IN FLORENCE, ITALY

New York, Dec. 8.—Mrs. Jennie B. Harris, once widely-known in the United States as a concert and church singer, died last Monday in Florence, Italy, according to word received here.

One doesn't earn how eccentric his neighbor is, if the neighbor has but money enough in his nature to carry it off well.

COLD WEATHER IS PREDICTED TONIGHT

Storm Sweeping Eastward; Traffic Paralyzed in West Because of Snow

at Harrisburg the mercury hovered around 30.

Suffering was reported in the mining sections in the eastern part of the state where hundreds of union miners have been on strike for the last eight months.

Sign Damaged

Signs in the business section rocked daily as the heavy rain driven by the gale swirled through the streets. Only one was damaged, according to a check this morning. The large tin sign above the Interurban news stand was torn from its moorings and hung suspended by one bar when the stand was opened this morning. Aside from branches being torn from trees, no damage was reported from the territory surrounding Marion.

Prompted by the weatherman's forecast of near-zero weather motorists last night kept filling station attendants busy filling radiators with denatured alcohol and other non-freezing liquids. A few, however, failed to heed the warning and were forced to have their machines towed to garages to be thawed out.

Wire Not Damaged
Despite the high winds no damage was reported to telephone and electric power lines, officials of the Columbus, Delaware and Marion Electric Co. and the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. said today.

ONE MAN KILLED IN STORM AT CLEVELAND

Cleveland, Dec. 8.—One man was killed and much property damage was caused by a high wind, accompanied by a torrential rain here during last night, a check-up disclosed today. Leo Bridges, 35, met instant death when a falling high tension wire, blown down by the miniature tornado, struck him.

Windows of several downtown stores were broken, trees were uprooted and traffic in various parts of the city was virtually paralyzed for a time.

The rain changed to snow this morning as the temperature dropped to 15 above zero.

TELEPHONE POLES DAMAGED AT NOWALK

Nowalk, Dec. 8.—More than 50 telephone poles were blown down last night by a 65-mile an hour gale at Milan, four miles from here. It was learned today.

High tension electricity from the Lake School Electric Company's feed wire entered the telephone exchange and caused great damage. It was reported.

TEMPERATURE NEAR ZERO IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Following a day of spring-like temperatures, Chicagoans went to work this morning in a biting northwest blizzard that shot the mercury down to near zero.

The cold wave is general over the middlewest, temperatures in some sections being reported as low as 32 below zero. Widespread suffering and damage caused by the tornado-like winds are reported over the affected areas.

Telephone and telegraph wires snapped under their burden of ice and snow, disrupting communication. Traffic tie-ups and accidents have followed in the wake of the blizzard.

The cold wave swept into Chicago last night in the teeth of a snow-laden northwest gale.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Chicago was enjoying the mild temperature of 51 degrees. Four hours later the mercury had tumbled to below freezing and at 6 o'clock this morning it registered five above zero.

It was predicted that the mercury would touch zero and below here before the climax of the cold wave was reached.

Much property damage in suburban sections of the city resulted from the high winds, which reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour. Trees were uprooted and billboards and signs blown down. A cornice on the roof of a large downtown hotel was blown loose and four men risked their lives while the billboard raged at its height, to fasten it down.

Blind that was falling when the blizzard started, was suddenly changed to sleet and snow.

In the prison Remus was cared for tenderly after his breakdown. He was given hot baths and alcohol rubs. Iron packs were put to his head by his daughter, Pamela Remus, and hot water bottles placed at his feet. He slept fitfully. He was treated by the silent assigned to the case, Dr. David I. Wolfstein, Dr. Charles Kieley and Dr. E. A. Baber, who administered sedatives to quiet his overwrought nerves.

At Father's Side
Remus, who collapsed in court when he witnessed the plight of her father, has completely recovered. She said she would remain at her father's side.

Occasionally during the night Remus moaned incoherently "My God, I can't stand it," he cried. And Remus, placing a cool hand on his brow, said, "Daddy, you will be all right." He said: "Remus, I'm ashamed of myself," and she replied: "Oh, please, Daddy don't say that." And once he cried: "Just think of it, I gave her

SCHOOL BURNS

Patients in Massachusetts Hospital Alarmed; $300,000 Damage Done

Lowell, Mass., Dec. 8.—Patients at Union Hospital were alarmed and residents of the vicinity left their homes early today when fire destroyed the Tracy Public Grammar School Building in West Low, causing damage estimated at between $100,000 and $300,000.

Flames from the burning schoolhouse reflected on the windows of the hospital and some of the patients left their beds. Nurses ran through the building, however, calming those in the hospital. Although several small fires were started on the roofs of dwelling houses near the burning school building, the wind prevented embers from falling on the hospital.

It was nearly two hours before the fire was under control.

"Often, nervousness and stomach trouble go hand in hand," said Mrs. Konjola Man yesterday at the Stump & Sons Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, Marion, where crowds of men

MRS. E. D. LANDON
Thale by Mauder Studio, Marion, and women are now calling daily to find out about this celebrated Konjola medicine.

"The nervous person may not be aware of stomach trouble, but very often the stomach is disordered, and at times it is the real seat of this terrible nervousness," continued the Konjola Man. "A nervous person wakes in the morning tired and exhausted. As the day advances his strength increases and at bedtime the sufferer is usually at his best, while some persons are just a bundle of nerves all the time—the least statement nearly drives them frantic. As a rule, constipation, headache, melancholia, or blues, are very common; and the sufferer seems to look only at the dark side of life—these things make nervousness a dreaded ailment."

This Konjola, which The Konjola Man is introducing in Marion, has given such amazing relief in so many cases of nervous indigestion and stomach trouble, that it is declared that no suffering person can afford not to try it. Many people say Konjola seems to go at once to the very source of such misery. For instance, just a few days ago, Mrs. E. D. Landon, living on East Street, Prospect, Ohio (near Marion), made the following statement in which she told of the relief she derived by taking Konjola:

"I just feel like now, and I think Konjola is wonderful," said Mrs. Landon. "I suffered terribly with nervousness and stomach trouble. In fact, it made nearly all the difference what I ate. I was sure to be in agony from indigestion. I would blot up with gas, and it was almost impossible for me to sleep at nights, due to shattered nerves. I used to feel pretty bad every morning, but now, your Konjola has benefited me so much that every morning I feel fit and fine. This is because I sleep so well. And with my nervousness and indigestion gone, I just feel like I have a new hold on life. As I said, I think Konjola is wonderful, and I am glad to recommend it to help others afflicted like I was."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump & Sons Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is now being sold by all of the good druggists in every nearby town of this whole section.—Adv.

Daily Proverb—"He who has a good neighbor has a good morning."

A Washington anthropologist finds the brains of congressmen above the average. Isn't science wonderful?

The Italian prognosticator, who predicted a heavy earthquake for the night of December 5-6 which didn't materialize, should get a letter in our weather bureau, where misses do not count.

Our old friend, Nick Longworth, says he prefers the speakability of the house to any other job in the United States. Well, if Alice is satisfied, far be it from wish of ours to complain.

Insanity, a wife says, is the defense of Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers, the young Texas bride, who held up a bank with an unloaded pistol and got $1,000. They're generally insane when they're caught.

"The Prince of Wales has been thrown from his horse several times," says the Dallas News, "and still he won't swap him off." It certainly can't be held that the prince's refusal to swap him off is because he's attached to him.

A Cleveland paper has started a movement to get the people up there to adopt the Christian lights idea, for so many years popular in Marion. Adopted by many smaller cities, it's planning to note that the plan is spreading to the larger population centers.

The Chicago Herald and Examiner says that "many a man's idea of a good time is to wake up next morning and not know what day of the week it is." In this day and age, the drawback about that kind of a good time is that too often the fellow who enjoys it never wakes up at all.

The Final Insult.

It must have rolled the good people of Tennessee when, two or three weeks ago, a skull which was dug up from eighteen feet below the surface in Santa Barbara was pronounced by scientists to be older than any skull known to man and to approach more nearly the connecting of man with the ape than any ever uncovered.

One of the scientists who viewed the skull, Dr. A. H. Osband, said of it:

"It undoubtedly antedates the Neanderthal and Java skulls, two other notable scientific treasures that have helped scientists to trace the evolution of man."

"None of those who viewed the skull in Los Angeles," continued Dr. Osband, "would venture the statement that the man could speak, and I can not see how he could have made a sound other than a grunt."

"The very large nose tallies somewhat with the Gibraltar skull, but otherwise it is different. It does not tally in any respect with the more developed skulls of the human race and is very much thinner than the normal skull."

"It indicates that the neck muscles located around the jaw must have been three times the size of the muscles of the man of today and very much like the ape as we know him."

That kind of talk naturally is poison to Tennesseans, who absolutely refuse to stand for the evolution theory. But what will be their feeling when they hear of the announcement, made Tuesday in New York, that man was once a fish.

"Near-sightedness, or myopia," said Dr. Eugene G. Wiseman, of Buffalo, chairman of the American Academy of Optometry, in addressing its sixth annual convention assembled in the metropolis, "is widely prevalent among the human species because man has not yet completely ceased being a fish."

"We have found," Dr. Wiseman said, "that a great proportion of cases of myopia are caused by the fact that the eyes naturally diverge to the right and to the left instead of looking straight ahead. The inner muscles of the eye, in trying to correct this and restore the parallelism of the vision of the two eyes, are subjected to a strain which produces near-sightedness."

In man's development from the lower species, Dr. Wiseman continued, the eyes had gradually come to the front from their position at the side of the head, as in the fish, and with this had come a great improvement—parallel vision of both eyes.

"This gave man a triangulating mechanism by which he could judge distances, and was of great value to him," said Dr. Wiseman.

"But naturally this recently acquired binocular single vision possessed the incompleteness of most new mechanisms."

We can't seriously blame Tennesseans if they arise as one man in an outcry against such a theory as this. As a matter of fact, it should make all of us a trifle warmer under the collar. To say that we sprang from the ape is bad enough but the intimation that the fish was our common ancestor is beyond the limit; it's going too far.

We're Getting Some Facts, Now.

The proposed $300,000 bond issue having failed to secure the approval of the voters of the city and hope of any such authorization having pretty thoroughly failed, we now have what is tantamount to official admission that a very considerable portion of the flood damage from which the city has suffered in the past has been due not so much to lack of outlet for storm water as to the fact that no provision was made for storm water when some of our streets were improved and that damage by flood waters to the West Side business section will be eliminated with the improvement of west Center street.

When the conditions which at present obtain on that thoroughfare are considered, there is no occasion for wonder that West Side business men are flooded every time there is a heavy rain. When the street was paved no provision was made to get storm water off of it. If our memory serves us correctly, there isn't a catch basin between Oak and Leader streets. If there are any, we fail to recall them, and they would be of little avail as there is no storm water sewer into which they could empty.

What's the consequence? In the case of a heavy rain the paved streets and alleys of the up-town business section do not permit of the absorption of the storm water in any degree. The roofs of the business houses in this section pour their storm water into the alleys and the water streams out of them into the streets. Naturally, it flows down hill, and soon the flood conditions exist.

The plans for the improvement of Center street provide for a large storm-water sewer to run the length of the improvement with thirty catch basins, six of them of double ordinary capacity, to permit the water to run off the street. Not only this, but the new sewer will accommodate storm water from some crossing streets and from Mill street to the north of it.

The city engineer is authority for the statement that there isn't any storm water sewer on Center street from Leader street eastward to Charles. If there is a catch basin along that avenue from High street to Charles we do not know of its location. Whether there is or not doesn't matter greatly, for the fact remains that in time of a downpour, the water runs in an apparently uninterrupted stream on either side of the street from Baker eastward to Charles. No wonder conditions are what they are along east Center.

When the time comes to repave or resurface Center street from the public square eastward so far as the bad paving extends—and the condition of the paving shows that that time is near at hand—we haven't a doubt but what the same plan to be followed on west Center street would give relief if followed to the eastward. In a word, we hope and expect to see the flood damage from which many sections of our city have suffered in the past eliminated at a cost far below the estimate at the time authorization of the $300,000 bond issue was sought.

Now this question: Why was it that, at the time such authorization was sought, there wasn't a frank announcement that the west Center street improvement would correct flood conditions in the West Side business section; why was it that, instead of such an announcement, the repeated flood conditions in that section of the city were offered as one of the reasons why the $300,000 bond issue should be authorized?

According to a Florida paper, the soil down there is "everywhere porous." From what a lot of papers up here have been telling us we assumed that it was everywhere aqueous.

If the French ministry of justice adheres to its plan "to check the avalanche of divorce suits by Americans" it's going to prove a downright hardship on our movie actresses. They no longer will be able to secure their decrees between filings for their new Paris gown.

Anyway, the hitting of two motorists by a hit-skip driver, a few nights since, goes to show that the potential killers haven't any special prejudice against us true aristocrats of the land.

Anyway the reader may look at it, the conclusion can not be escaped that President Coolidge's second announcement of his refusal to be a contender for the presidency in 1928 is nothing short of cruel and unusual punishment of Senator Foss.

"Now worthy citizens will have to get their liquor the best way they can," was the taunt of Mr. Alphonse Capone, Chicago's most prominent distributor of liquid delight, in leaving for Florida. Al must have been playing for a recall, or he never would have tried to throw a scare like that into the "good and law-abiding" citizenship of Chicago.

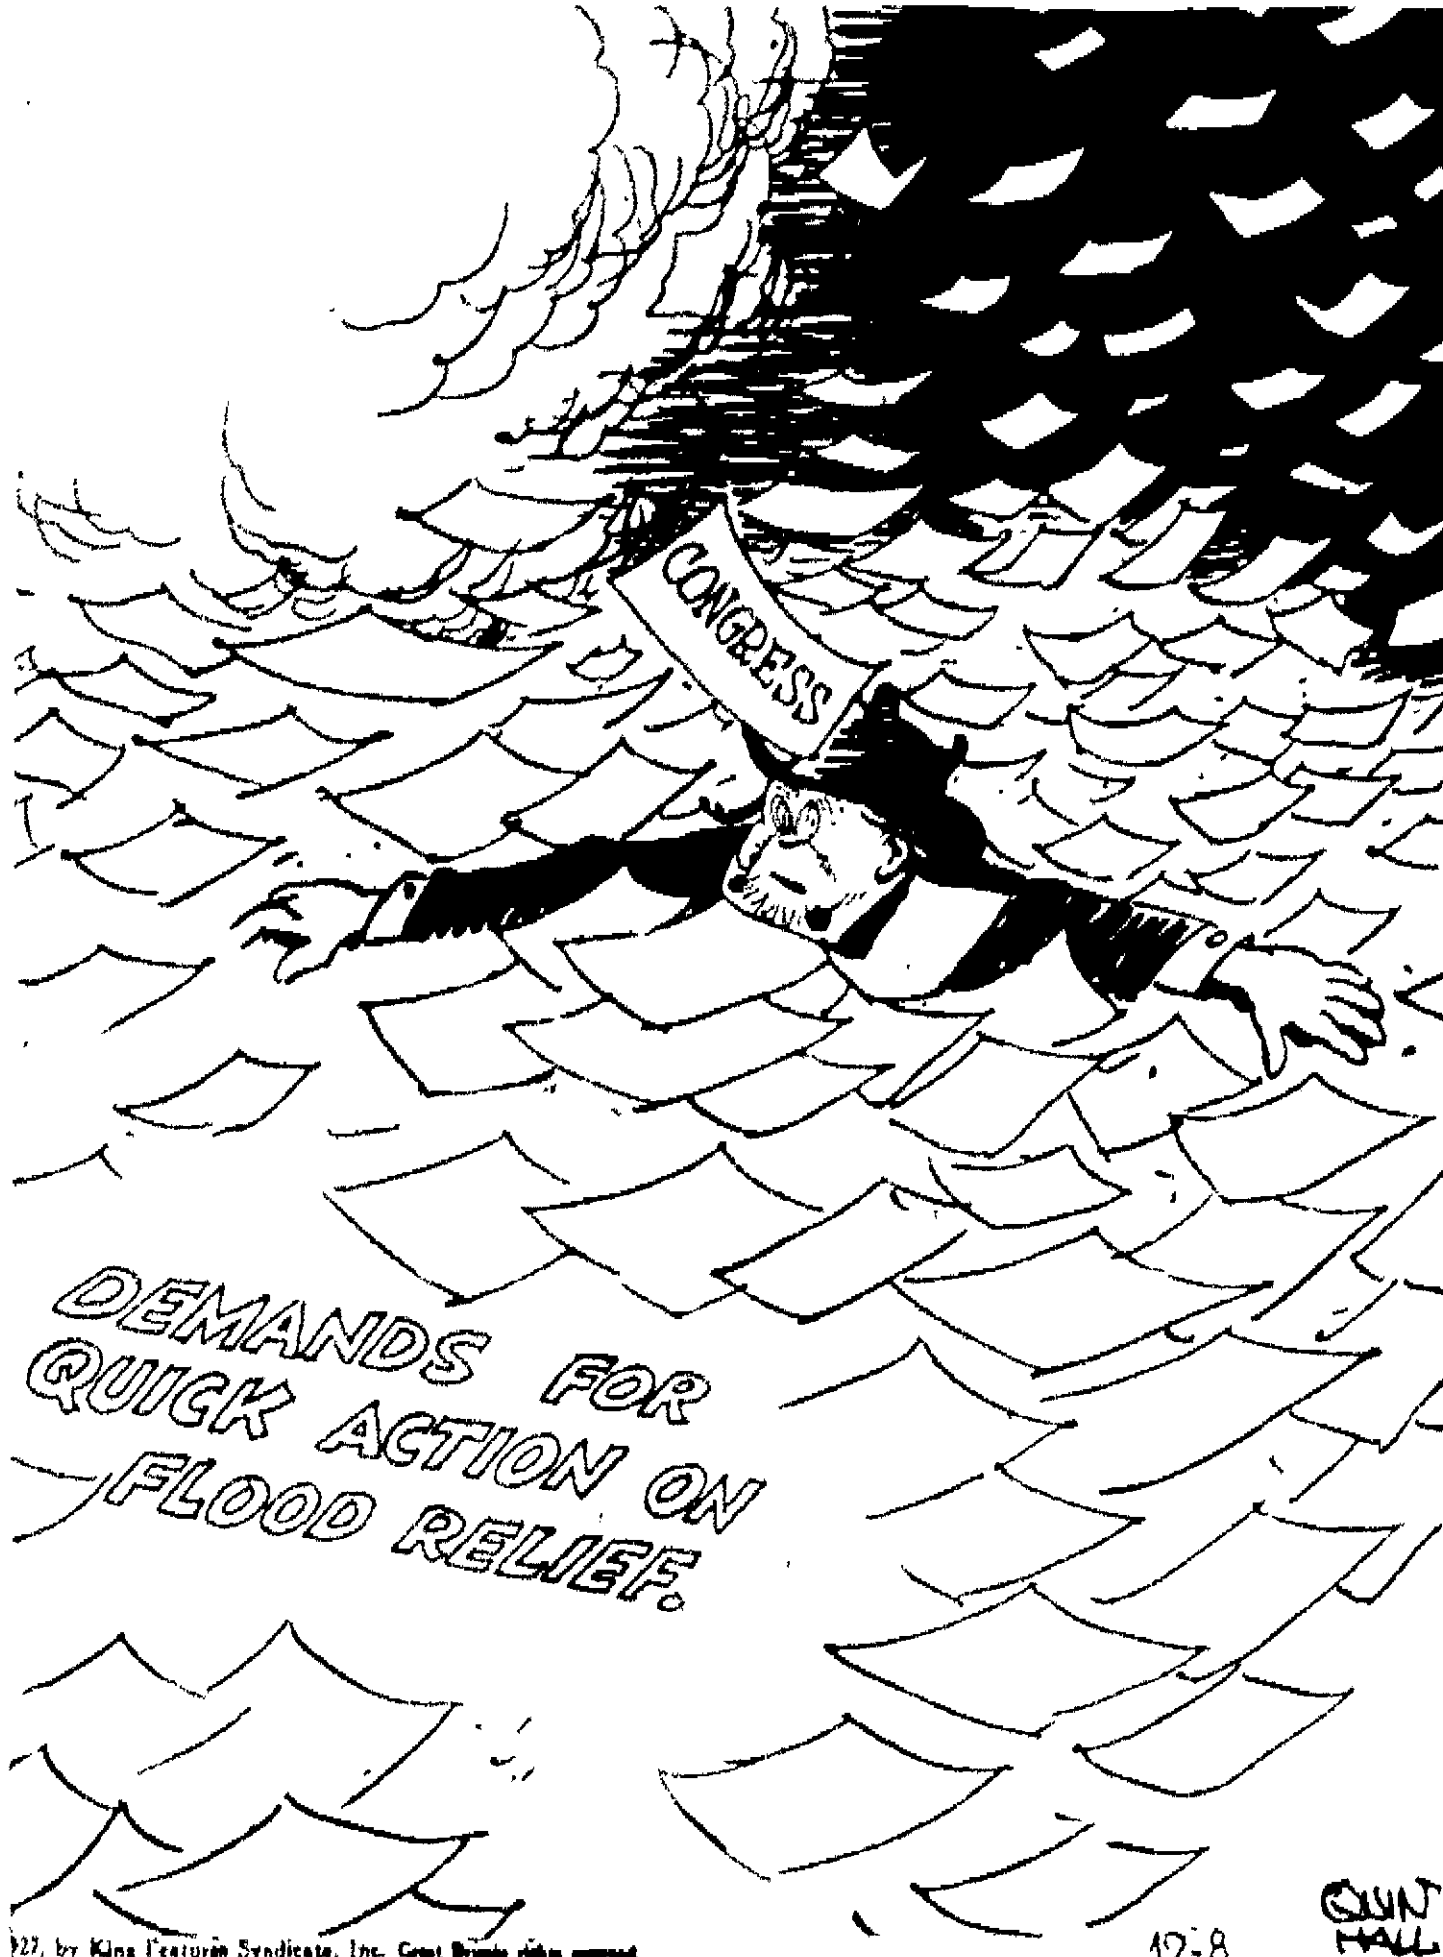

Two thousand passengers sailed on the Leviathan, Tuesday, to pass the holiday season in Europe. There's no getting away from the fact that the Christmas cheer to be had across there is a lot safer than the bootlegger stuff we have here.

The United States bureau of chemistry says that leather bookbindings deteriorate unless given a plentiful supply of pure air. If the same is true of leather lungs, there should be additional ventilation of both houses of congress, if the western obstructionists are to endure.

Even the assurance of the Australian astronomers that the comet visible down there and soon to be seen up here if of the "naked eye" variety doesn't seem to have created a ripple. The "naked" business is becoming pretty old stuff.

A Washington correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer says a plan is afoot to move the headquarters of the Anti-Saloon league from Westerville to Washington. Of course, it would prove an awful blow to Westerville, but the people of that community can not claim that they didn't have notice. For years there has been a steady trend toward centralization of government.

Round Out Century in Work.

BY ROYAL S. COVELAND, M. D.

I live old people. It does my soul good to hear about their successful battles with disease and death.

What causes me to write this way is a conversation I had with a charming friend of mine. He is well along on life's journey. When I complimented him on his youthful appearance, he replied:

"That's nothing. My father was one of nine brothers, every one of whom lived to be ninety. One died at 100 and another at 103."

On the same day came a letter from a man in Nashville, Tennessee. He describes himself as a "working printer." He is past eighty, but says he "helps out" in the printing office every day, is always ready for meals and enjoys vigorous health.

Last summer I spoke at the Michigan society picnic in Los Angeles. On the platform was a man 110 years old. He is the oldest person I ever saw. A bit hard of hearing, but the faculties and nimble wit of our friends were as good as we would expect a man of seventy to possess.

If you want to die, sit down and invite death. If you want to live keep busy. He occupied with things which hold your interest.

It makes no difference what you do. Dr. Frank Crane will keep busy writing entertaining and instructive essays. My printer friends will keep his muscles pliable and his wits clear by working in the print shop. Another young old man cares for his furnace, clears the walks of snow, and reads substantial books in the winter time. In summer he works in his garden and keeps his dooryard tidy.

Three men are not old. Certainly Dr. Crane isn't. But they know how to keep from getting old. They do it by continuing to do the things they do well and like to do.

Some days I feel a hundred years old, but honestly, I am not going to be permanently old if I can help it. I purpose keeping at my work till the crack of doom.

Why isn't that a good decision for each of us? Why not make up our minds to avoid crutches, canes, wheeled-chairs, having other people hold our coats, and shivering in the cold?

Let us walk briskly, be animated in our contacts with people, and maintain a lively interest in all the affairs of the day. To make this the daily program will keep the blood in circulation, preserve the elasticity of the muscles, and cause the brain to function faultlessly.

Let us join the "Hundred Year" club and determine to be active members of the organization.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

M. W. Q.—Where could I obtain a book or pamphlet on the subject of relative food values and calories?

A—Apply at any public library or book shop, where I feel sure you will be able to get books along these lines.

C. J. Q.—What should a man weigh who is thirty years old and five feet eight and one-half inches tall?

A—For his age and height he should weigh about 154½ pounds.

E. M. N. Q.—I am thirty-one years of age, five feet one inch tall. What should I weigh? I now weigh 160 pounds. I weigh 170 pounds.

2—Would anemia be apt to cause night sweats? My mother is fifty-six and weighs 204 pounds. If not, what would cause the trouble?

A—You should weigh about 155 pounds. Restrict your diet in regard to sweets and starchy foods and take plenty of outdoor exercise. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2—It might be. An examination would probably locate the exact cause of the trouble.

M. M. Q.—Is there such a disease as high blood pressure?

2—Please give the symptoms of high blood pressure.

3—What is the cause of high blood pressure?

A—It is not a disease; it is a symptom.

2—Flushing of the face, nose bleeds, dizziness and pains in the head.

3—Indiscretion of diet for a long time is the most common cause. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.—Copyright, 1927.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it can not be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, in care of this office.

Editorial Comment.

THE RUSSIAN PROPOSAL.

Since all are agreed, including Mr. Litvinoff himself, that the Russian proposals for absolute disarmament are meant for propaganda and not for negotiation, it may be well to ask whether they are good propaganda.

As an attempt to show up the hypocrisy of the capitalist governments it is equally a failure. For the Russian proposal itself reeks with hypocrisy. If there is one thing that communism has in common with other forms of government it is a reliance upon organized force.

If the Russians really thought they could embarrass the other governments they were profoundly mistaken. They have merely justified those who insist that it is impossible to do business with the Soviets because they are always playing some game. Mr. Litvinoff was obviously playing a game. What game? Our guess is that the main purpose of this gesture was to silence the little cliques of communist intellectuals scattered around the world who do not at all like to see Soviet Russia sitting at the same table with the capitalist states. It is propaganda for the cafes, where it can now be said with laughter and much self-righteousness that Mr. Litvinoff certainly made the British empire and the French republic and the United States look pretty cheap.

The proposal was not meant to be discussed on the merits.

For the world will never abolish armaments. It can only outlaw armaments. It might abolish wars or submarine, this weapon or that, but until force ceases to play a decisive part in human affairs, armaments of some sort will remain. The time may come, though we shall not live to see it, when mankind will be so well organized that the habit of appealing to force will gradually wither away and be lost. But until that time comes, the attempt to make peace depends not upon the abolition of force, but on bringing the use of force under the dominion of as much law, justice, reason and good will as possible.—New York World.

A LINCOLN MYTH.

An amusing example of the manner in which myths about popular heroes arise appeared in a dispatch from Springfield, Illinois, in which Abraham Lincoln, General George E. Pickett, the noted confederate commander who led the famous charge of his division at the battle of Gettysburg, and his wife and baby were mixed up in the most approved sob-story fashion. To state it briefly, this yarn told how Lincoln as a congressman had secured the appointment of young Pickett to West Point and how many years later, after Pickett had joined the confederacy, "Lincoln was high enough and broad enough even after Pickett had turned against the very government and man who had given him his military education, to forgive him, as Lincoln said: 'Because I've kissed his baby.' This oscillatory episode is said to have occurred at Richmond, Virginia, during the president's hasty trip to that city at the close of the civil war.

Unfortunately for the main points of this story the plain facts of history are against them. It is true that young Pickett, though a native of Richmond, was appointed to West Point from Illinois. That appointment was made in 1842, when he was seventeen years old. Possibly he was reading law at the time, as the myth has it, but that point is not so essential as the undoubted fact that Lincoln was not elected to congress until 1816, just about the time Pickett was graduated from West Point. The latter was distinguishing himself as a dashing young officer in the Mexican war before Lincoln had entered upon his congressional duties.

Possibly the slender basis of this tale lies in the likelihood that as a boy Pickett may have met Lincoln, who was a practicing lawyer in Springfield, and may have confided to him his ambition to become a soldier. Lincoln, however, a private citizen, could not have appointed him to a cadetship. We pass over the incident of the baby-kissing. It does not appear germane to the subject.—Philadelphia Record.

FOR OLD INTELLECTUALS.

Earth is no blackboard on whose vacuum an idiot writes—it may be once or twice—A mere chalk-scribble of humanity For the crazer of an age of 100. Nor are the stars the cogwheels of the sky. Turning the cosmos like an iron machine; Nor men a set of shadows clicking by—More moving pictures on an azure screen. Not Earth is a fierce horse with a mane of trees. That gallops like a stallion round the sun: To him a cyclone is a morning breeze. He has infinity in which to run. And man is like a farmer, boy who plows. Bareback and shouting through the warnings of the tides.

—The Echo.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

There is much difference between stubbornness and intolerance. There is little difference between intolerance and the right of his own opinion. But there is much to be said for the stubborn man. A certain amount of obstinacy adds toughness to the fabric of character. Just simply making up your mind that you won't do a thing to matter how many people want you to do it, or even how good the reason appears to be, may be a highly creditable position to take. Some people who boast of extreme tolerance are merely easy. They have no convictions.

Nineteen times out of twenty it is a good thing to vote for a bond issue. Bond issues in American cities usually mean public improvements—new hospitals, new bridges, enlarged public buildings. And yet time after time bond issues fail at election because people have more tax-fear than vision. It is sad to find out how many supposedly good citizens will vote against a bond issue even though it does not mean more than two dollars of increased taxes in one year. They are penny people—thinking always in pennies and never even dreaming in dollars.

The temptation to say what you think and "get it out of your system" is very great. It undoubtedly does us all good to give vent to annoyance and anger. They physiologically effect is good. Both mind and body are relieved. But there are very much more important considerations than the consideration of personal comfort. Perhaps the most important thing that we do not have the right to do is the right to make some one else unhappy.

Depression is contagious. Depression is more a habit of mind unless it is based on physical ailment. You do not have to be "gloom" just because you feel like a "gloom." Most people enjoy being "low" in their minds at times. They develop a sense of martyrdom, and martyrdom is usually pleasant, although it is usually associated with pain.

The habit of depression, of melancholy, can be overcome, but it is not an easy task. You may long have to force yourself into a happier frame of mind but eventually the habit of cheerfulness can be formed. And all this is not mere Pollyannaism. There is plenty of pain and trouble and tragedy in the world, and it is silly to deny it. But the mind-habit of depression makes matters very much less tolerable.

Dinner Stories.

Lawyer—"Then you say that this man was drunk?"

Witness—"I do not. I simply said that he sat in his car for three hours in front of an excavation waiting for the light to turn green."

Mrs. Newrich—"What's that rough-looking plant?"

Gardener—"That belongs to the cactus family."

Mrs. Newrich—"Tell them to take it home."

An English vaudeville actor was singing "Baby Face," only he pronounced it "Bibby Face." This was not going over with his audience at all, so a brother actor told him that he would do better to sing it in American.

"Yes," he replied, "but 'Baby Face' does not rhyme with the next line, 'see—' 'Tike your place.'"

"I'm hungry," complained a husky husband one morning.

"But you've just had your breakfast," returned his wife.

"I know it," he said, "but as soon as I finished I drank a glass of water and all those flannel cakes shrank right down to comparatively nothing."

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MCINTYRE.

New York, Dec. 8.—The last of the East Side's notorious gangsters passed with a bang of "Little Augie," several weeks ago. He died as he had lived, by the gun—Johnnie Augie, gangland warlord as Kid Dropper, Big Zelig, Little Lump, Monk Eastman, and others.

Despite much sentimental sniveling, East Side breathes freer. So long as the argument, usually primed with heroin, was through the crowded Ghetto, innocent children and grown-ups were in danger. The blazed away from racing automobiles, killing those who had done them no harm.

The gangster is praised for a single act of virtue—and that is he never squeals. He does not seal his lips and takes his money. This loyalty to a gangland code is to be stressed. The gangster never squeals because he knows his only hope to live is to raise his respectable, but trying to raise for respectability, and grow-ups were in danger. The blazed away from racing automobiles, killing those who had done them no harm.

The tragedy of the gangster is in his environment. As a rule he is spawned in tenement-house gutters and learns to breathe naturally as he breathes fetid air. He does not give him much of what is known as his world as "a break."

He acquires early hatred of law and order and "ganging a cop" is a youthful dream. Honest labor is anathema, and he soon learns he can live without it by joining a band of street criminals. All are spurred to desperate hope of becoming a leader.

Most gangsters have women whose earnings add to their income, although there are some who married and whose wives "made" nothing of their lives until their husbands were brought home. Few live to the age of thirty, and all die with their boots or "burn" in the electric chair.

Thousands go through life with minor physical disfigurement that cause them unnecessary anguish. A novelist has become a recluse in Europe because of a slight facial blemish that would not receive a passing glance. A playwright will rarely appear in public because the tip end of a finger was sawed away with the accidental discharge of a shotgun when a boy. A famous cartoonist has a slight limp since a boyhood accident, and yet I have known him to get married and not notice he recently called attention to the deformity. Yet it has long been a matter of extreme sensitiveness and kept him from the public.

This is not prohibition propaganda. It is the ghastly conclusion of a New York laboratory chemist. He told me: "New York's liquor is worse by far than ever. In the past six months I have analyzed perhaps 200 samples of liquor for personal friends who made their purchases from bootleggers supposed to be reputable. All samples, save one, which was merely colored water, contained deadly poison. It consumed even in moderate quantities over a period of a year any specimen would result in physical deterioration that would cause death." O. M. Nedick.

Two newspaper columnists—Bugs Baer and Heywood Brown—have tried out personal appearances on the stage without exactly rocking the theatrical firmament. Yet an agent's authority for the statement he has seen columnists in New York and other sections of the country who are anxious to lend themselves to the glorification of the stage.

Heywood Brown is a finished speaker and Bugs Baer has a ridiculous sense of comedy that will send a private audience or his reading public into gales of unrestrained laughter—but when they face a paid audience, how long for the trained seals or the "Bouncing McQuire." That is true of almost every columnist.—Copyright, 1927.

Believe Uninstructed Delegates Will Hold G. O. P. Power

KANSAS CITY GETS MEETING

Coolidge, Hughes Elimination Leaves Easterners in Quandry

Washington, Dec. 8.—A Republican convention meeting in Kansas City, June in which uninstructed delegates will hold the balance of power—between a fight between Herbert Hoover and those "friendly enemies," O. L. Lowden and Charles G. Dawes.

This was the picture carried away from Washington today by members of the Republican National Committee as a result of the rapid-fire political developments of the last 48 hours, which saw the self-elimination of President Coolidge and Charles E. Hughes, and the selection of Kansas City as the convention site.

Mr. Coolidge's erasure of himself from the 1928 picture, and the Hughes announcement that he would neither seek nor accept the nomination left the eastern leaders groping, confused, and without a candidate. The convention next June will be the first in many years in which the eastern leaders will be unable to present a serious contender—unless one can be developed within the next few months. Serious contenders, however, are rarely developed in that space of time.

Go Uninstructed

The net result will be, according to the consensus of eastern leaders today, that the large and important delegations east of Chicago will go to the convention uninstructed or prepared to cast their votes in the early balloting for favorite sons.

Mr. Hughes could have had the New York and Pennsylvania delegations, a neat block of 169 votes at the outset. He was to have been New York's candidate, with the backing of Andrew W. Mellon, whose wishes will guide the Pennsylvania delegation.

MR. AND MRS. HARRY OHLS were chairman when members of the Nine to Twelve Dancing Club danced last night at Schwingers. Assistant hosts were Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shealy, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Davis, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Schwing, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Flach and Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Bush. About 30 couples danced to a program played by the Harding Ballroom Orchestra, a feature novelty being the Cindersella dance. The next club dance will be Dec. 28.

A PROGRAM, delightfully varied, was presented by members of the Junior League Hospital Club last night in the ballroom at Hotel Harding. Miss Charlotte Kramer and Miss Jane Smith opened the program with a piano number, "Valde Brillante," Moszkowski, and Miss Mary Heisinger played "Marche Grolezue," Sinding. Miss Jo Smallwood was heard in two violin numbers, "Premier Solo," Danciel and "Ave Marie," Gounod, accompanied at the piano by Miss Dorothy Zieg. Lidnow's "Music Box," and "Waltzing Doll," Poldini, were the piano numbers presented by Miss Dorothy Bush and Miss Janice Langman's vocal number was "Ole White Dream," Lister. Her accompaniment was played by Miss Charlotte Courtney. "Adoration," Borawski, played by Miss Martha McGee, was followed by two readings, "The Star of Bethlehem," and "The Leap Year Leap," by Miss Nyla Miller, and a piano number, "Adesta Fideles," by Miss Lucille Schindler. The program concluded with a group of Christmas numbers, "Silent Night," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," and "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," played by Miss Ellen Sage, soprano, Miss Dorothy Creanor, cornet, and Miss Dorothy Zieg, piano. The numbers were splendidly presented and merited the enthusiastic applause of the audience which included members of the senior music club, and friends of the club members.

OF A

Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

MAN'S MAGIC TALISMAN

CONFIDENCE!

ONE of the traits which a woman

most admires and envies in a man is his sweet and imperturbable SELF-

CONFIDENCE!

It covers him like a coat of armor, off which all stabs at his vanity, all arrows aimed at his complacency, and all blows at his pride blithely glance, leaving his self-esteem and his egotism intact.

He never doubts that he can win a woman's love, if he should care to—and never fears that he may lose it, no matter what he may do.

It is harder to find a man with a genuine inferiority complex than it is to find a flapper with a genuine complexion.

No matter WHAT he may see when he looks in his mirror, he is always secretly convinced that there is SOME-

THING about him—je ne sais quoi—that is irresistible to the women.

Tell a man that a woman is in love with him and he will unquestioningly take your word for it. Tell him that she is in love with some other man and he will laughingly assure you that she is only "bidding herself."

A man is never worried as to whether a woman really loves him or not. The only thing that worries him is whether he WANTS her to love him or not.

He will cheerfully go off and leave a woman to her own devices for a week, a month or a year—and expect to come back and start right where he left off in the romance, the flirtation or the love-affair.

He never dreams that anything more attractive, more interesting or more desirable could have come into her life in the meantime.

Yet he would not think of leaving a prize pet dog out in the cold on a park bench for a week, a day or an hour, and expect to come back and find the dear little thing sitting right there waiting to greet him with a bark of joy.

No matter how plain and commonplace a man may be, he is never surprised or flattered when the most fascinating of women bestows her favors on him. Why should he be?

Hasn't he that irresistible "je ne sais quoi"?

Oh it's a gift straight from Heaven

—this beautiful sublime masculine self-confidence! It is a charm that keeps him free from all inhibitions, jealous, self-consciousness, anxiety and insou-rance. It is his preventive against wrinkles and his secret of eternal youth! It is a magic wand, which turns everything rose-colored for him.

But it's awfully wearing on the woman who happens to be in love with him! And worse on the ones who are NOT!

The Story of a Girl
Who Tried To Cheat Love

BY GILBERT ROGERS

What has happened so far

Marsh comes to New York with a thousand dollars and a woman's education. She keeps house for four other girls, learns geography and decides after three years to marry. She fails to find her ideal, and Dan Shelin, a married man of the world offers to seduce her into smart society through Mrs. Brooke, provided she will give him some security. Mrs. Brooke consists of a note which she dictates and Sally receives signs, to the effect that she will give him and will never regret the money she has spent with him.

man who takes it for granted that she is very wealthy. Sally scores a success with rich Tubby Wells, goes on his yacht and discovers he is already married. This information proves of great interest to Shelin. Sally wishes she had never given that compromising letter. She overhears Mrs. Brooke talking to Shelin and has a vague feeling that she has gotten herself into a bad company. She thinks happily about Jerry whom she is to see the next day.

Now go on with the story

CHAPTER VII

SHE awoke all at once to stare into the darkness. There must be a moon, for the tips of the four-posted bed were like pale lights. The faintest breeze came through the open window, ruffling the summer curtains. From far away she thought she could make out the muffled roar of the sea.

But why had she awakened like this, with every nerve and sense alert? She wriggled her toes in the linen sheets and thought of how a woodland animal must start to consciousness just like this at the hint of danger. She was a deer and on the wind she had heard the voices of men stealthily approaching with guns. . . . She smiled in the darkness, then sat up in bed.

That wasn't the sea she heard, not that regular, dull beat. Sally slipped out of bed and stole to the window. Below her on the drive under the trees was a big roadster, with its engine still running. The headlights flared, making a brilliant circle of light and sending up the pale radiance she had thought was moonlight.

There was no one in the car, but she recognized it as Shelin's. He had just driven up perhaps, coming from somewhere, going somewhere on one of his mysterious errands. Her eyes started to the radius dial of the clock on the mantel. Almost four. And as it from far away she could make out in the darkness a faint thinning as the night was making its last stand before the dawn. The car with its lights and thrumming motor, the silence, the loneliness of the faint wind—there was something ghostly about it all. And at that moment there came a new sound to her ears, a woman's high-pitched, rapid voice, and a sharp exclamation. Then a sudden, low whispering. . . . across the hall . . . from Mrs. Brooke's room.

Sally stole back to bed, doubled the pillow over her ears, commanded herself to go to sleep. But she grew only wider awake, lying there while the first greyness touched the sky and the lights from the car below took on sickly hues.

After all if people want to whisper—or quarrel—about their affair, if they want to come in near dawn in long, handsome roadsters, they're a right to. After all—but really, what was this secret between Charlotte Brooke and Dan Shelin? "I must stop thinking about this, or I'll get cross feet from curiosity," Sally decided, and went on thinking. Went on until the whispering had ceased, and she heard a quick step on the stairs, the opening of the front door, the sound of the roadster springing into life, as with a shift of speeds, it darted from the gravel path below and sped away.

Shelin had gone. Where, why, how— "oh, do stop thinking," Sally pleaded with herself. But almost the next second she heard from Mrs. Brooke's room a sound that was a little like a moan, like a sob. No need to think now! Sally's negligence was over her shoulders, her feet had slipped into mules and she was knocking gently on Mrs. Brooke's door.

A bridge lamp over a sicken daybed made a kind of spotlight under which Mrs. Brooke was sitting. Her mouth was tugged down at the corners, her eyes were red. She looked hurt and strangely helpless. Sally's arms were around her, Sally's heart was beating with a new tenderness. You would cry when you were miserable over little things. But little things didn't make you look like that, that strained, wild look that touched the bottom of despair.

"You're a good little thing," Charlotte Brooke's voice was a whisper, an unsteady whisper. Her hand closed round Sally's hand as if to cling for comfort. "I—oh, well, I wish I had the nerve—the nerve! Only I don't dare kill myself. People say it's cowardly to do that. I wish I had the courage!"

"Is it something that—that you'd want to tell me? I mean, can I help anyway—anyway at all?" Mrs. Brooke shook her head. "No, only don't leave me. I'll go mad if I am alone. Talk to me . . . say anything . . . make me stop thinking—if you can. No, get me that blue bottle on the shelf in there. Bromides—it's only bromides—don't look at me like that!"

"The white, flaky tablet dissolved in a few teaspoons of water, and Mrs. Brooke drank and set down the glass. She snuffed off the light, for the sky was more than grey now. It was a cold white, and outside a few birds were chirping in the trees as if no one had ever been unhappy anywhere.

"I met him in Cannes," Mrs. Brooke said suddenly and Sally did not need to ask whom she meant. "It was—quite a long time ago. He was just a gambler, and I thought I'd never dislike anybody so much until I'd found I couldn't like anybody any more. And since then—if I could tell you—but I can't. I can't!"

"But if you love him," Sally faltered bravely, "I don't suppose anything matters. I mean if you really love somebody."

Then Charlotte Brooke laughed, laughed wildly, almost hysterically. "You poor little thing!" she exclaimed between gulps, "you poor little thing! Do you think it's really that? Do you think I'm having remorse for—for a love affair? You are innocent, aren't you? A little too innocent?"

Sally's arm came free. "I'll go back to bed, I think."

"Oh, don't leave me . . . don't leave me. I've hurt your feelings—I can't tell you. I'm all in pieces, I tell you. You've got to make allowances. And I've got to have someone near me who does like me. You do like me, don't you?"

"Oh! . . . you know that! . . . Then don't leave me—no, not yet. I—I shouldn't know what to do if you did."

The dawn hours, people stirring below, the maid getting breakfast, and Sally sitting there still, talking about nothing, about everything, about her life years ago at school, about her life years ago at school, about her life years ago at school. For it was that which Charlotte Brooke wanted to hear most. "Talk to me about yourself—everything—what you want and things like that. Then I shall be able . . . to forget myself."

Breakfast was sent up, and the fine summer morning was in full swing. Too late to go down to the water now and swim out to a dingy boat in the harbor. Sally thought ruefully. For there was an early luncheon engagement that Mrs. Brooke had made for both of them today, and a dozen things to do before that. Oh well, Jerry Eversham would still be there. There would be another tomorrow.

An hour later Sally was at Mrs. Brooke's side, driving down Bellevue Avenue towards the smartest of smart New York shops. Mrs. Brooke was buying extravagantly, as if a fever possessed her, with no pleasure in what she bought. Made up ever so carefully, the redness was gone from her eyes, and her voice had grown determinedly crisp and careless. She was not helpless any longer.

As they came out to the sidewalk, Mrs. Brooke turned back for a moment, and a man, sauntering with Panama hat and cane, almost ran into Sally. It was Tubby Wells, into his eyes flashed an extraordinary look of coldness and contempt.

Sally gave him a puzzled glance, then smiled. "How are you?"

"Well . . . you are a cool one. . . . and you're very clever, aren't you?" He puffed out the words like little puffs of anger.

"What . . . I don't understand," she faltered. Why was he looking at her like that? Was she dreaming? Had someone said something. Had he found out she was just a pretender?

"You ought to be on the stage—best little actress I ever saw. Why, if I hadn't been bitten, I'd be taken in by that look all over again!"

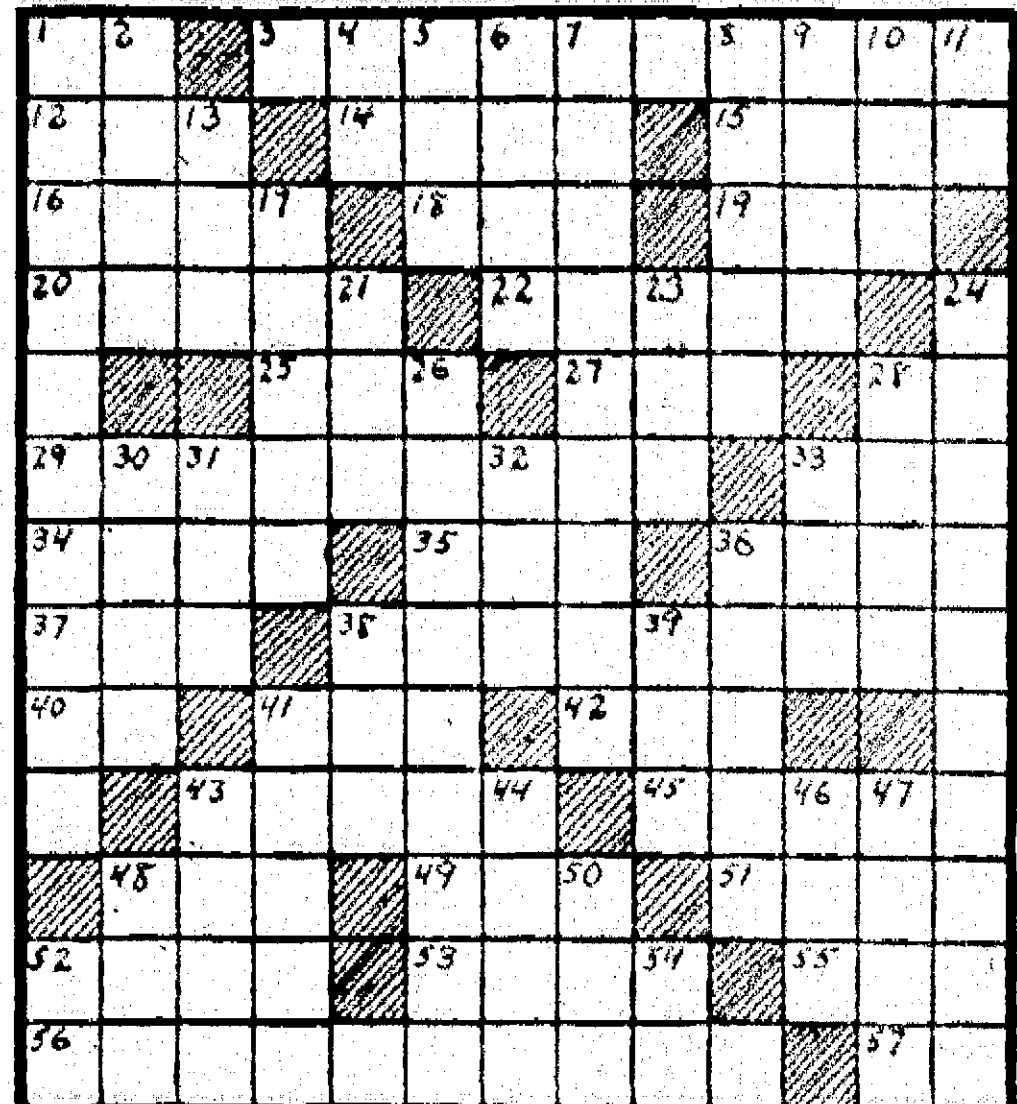

"Do you mind telling me what you're talking about?"

He leaned forward. His eyes were brighter. "Certainly. On board my yacht. Tomorrow. What do you say?"

"Well I—yes!" said Sally suddenly. He gave her a significant look, lifted his hat, and stroled on.

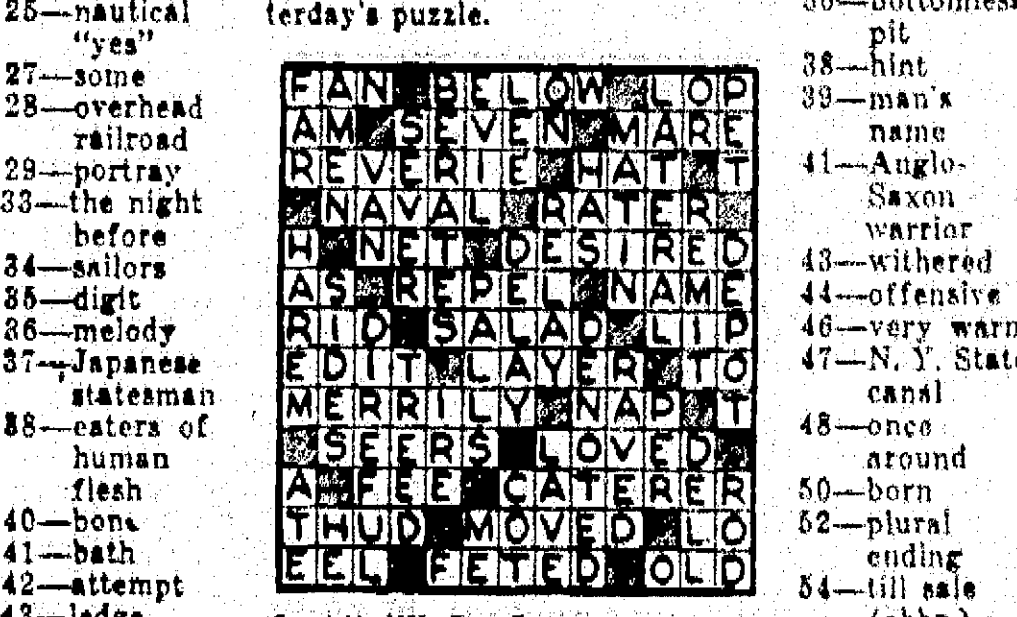

And afterwards at lunch in a big house on the cliff, while Mrs. Brooke kept chattering away in a vein of worldly flippancy, so that no one would have believed her to be the same woman as who had sat facing the dawn, haggard and inarticulate with anguish, Sally's mind kept coming back to Tubby Wells. What on earth had happened to make him talk—and act—the way he did? Somehow she felt that if she could find that out, other things, that puzzled her would also be clear. (To be continued.)

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

It is colder than ever. My grandfather says he thinks it will get down to zero wherever that is, and my father said the weather man said it looked like steady cold weather for quite a while yet. He said it is 30 below in the northwest and is headed this way. Men are not so very smart. If I was a man and knewed where the cold was and which way it was coming I would bustle up and get in my way and build a big fire in its path. I bet the time it got past that I would be warm enough to grow bananas.

My mother said that it was so cold this morning that she wanted me to stay in the house till it was time for school. It was so cold the hunch didn't come to the barn so I said all right. Then pretty soon Yonnie and Peenie and Hattie came pushing their faces in and then Teaputs and Nibs and the Lost Bag of Tripe and Banty and Pickles and Potty came edging in and crowding around the stove. Then Bunt came whose father works at the stink factory and whose old clothes are made over for Bunt. As soon as he came, we all made room for him next to the stove like we always do. Pretty soon I heard my aunt say "Sweet easiness of peppermint!" And my mother had a fit of coughing, and my grandfather, said something that children shouldn't hear. Then my mother came in the kitchen and put a handful of coffee on top of the stove, and told us to run outside till school time. Bunt is pretty fierce when he gets warmed up good.

After that we went down to the pond. Then I went back and got our barn bail and we took at turn dipping water out of the pond at the hole by the dam and carrying it up hill and pouring it out and letting it run down the slide so we could slide on it after school. We were all pretty wet when it was time to go to school and our pants froze. We pretended like they were iron pants like the knights used to wear days in olden times. I bet a pair of iron pants would be cold in the winter time. I know our's were.

We got the slide too smooth anyhow. I let Peenie slide down it first on my sled, and she went down it like she was dropped out of an airplane and across the pond like who was shot out of a gun, and then she hit the railroad bank and went up in the air and crossed over the tracks without hitting them. So the rest of us didn't slide. And she didn't slide any more.

Love's Embers

Mrs. Townsend's Theory

It was only at first glance that I thought I could understand but part of the French inscription upon the back of the photograph which little Mrs. Townsend had brought so excitedly for my inspection. Upon the second reading as I firmly fixed every character in my memory as Lillian had signaled me to do, I realized the tremendous significance of the name printed upon the back of the picture. It was one well known to me, and as Lillian's shoulder pressed mine while she, too, read the inscription, I knew that she too was inwardly gasping at the sight of the familiar name.

"Now!" little Mrs. Townsend exclaimed. "Do you see why I'm so excited. Just imagine! Suppose Miss Lincoln should be she! Can't you just see the parties I could give and the sensation I could make? It would be worth a year's income to put something over like that on Tossie Rivers."

She reminded me irresistibly of a pretty kitten flicking its lips over some cherished bit of food. But I realized as I knew Lillian did, that she must be permitted to cherish the fantastic illusion she had. I waited, however, for Lillian's reply.

"Yes, I can see them," Lillian answered, smiling. "And I am so sorry to spoil your pretty theory. But I have a friend in the home city of this young woman—" she tapped the picture lightly "and I have a letter from her which tells me that this girl is in the country. The letter was written since Miss Lincoln took up her residence at The Larches, so that conclusively proves the two cannot be the same."

Mrs. Townsend looked at her with disappointment in her eyes which also held distinct respect.

"Did you say your friend knows her?" she asked, indicating the photograph figure.

"Oh, yes," Lillian said airily, with a purposeful ambiguity which made us laughers murmur a sob, so foreign was it to my friend's usual manner. "She is quite an intimate at the—at her home—and she could not be mistaken."

Little Mrs. Townsend sat silent and chagrined for several seconds.

"Well!" she said at last, "of course one cannot go behind information like this."

"Well!" she said at last, "of course one cannot go behind information like this."

"Well!" she said at last, "of course one cannot go behind information like this."

that. And the middle part of the face is not the same. But don't you think that there is some mysterious connection between Mrs. Lincoln and this photograph?"

Lillian considered me instant, then suddenly resolved to throw a sop to the little woman.

"Yes, I do," she said, "although there may be a very plausible explanation of it. But of course it is nothing upon which we can question her."

"Now, of course not," Mrs. Townsend agreed, patting Lillian's cheek and a cherished idea of going to Miss Lincoln with the photograph in the hope of securing some information.

Will your skin bear close scrutiny?

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. Had a skin eruption. Was nervous and had lost weight. After taking a course of S.S.S. I gained in weight; got rid of my nervousness; and my skin cleared up. I think S.S.S. is a most wonderful blood medicine. Several of my friends are taking it for the same reason I did." Miss Margaret Frye, LaPel, Ind.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. It is time-tried and reliable. S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger also is more economical.

take S.S.S. and be proud of a Clear Skin

EVERY woman's problem is that of keeping her wardrobe complete and stylish. The sensible American girl who wants to conserve her cash alters that suit and dress to suit the style occasion after having it cleaned.

PERISHABLE GOODS DELIVERED PROMPTLY

Handled as Special Mail When Received After Regular Hours; Charge Made

Perishable articles such as edibles and flowers received at the postoffice after the hours of the regular delivery on Saturday afternoons, Sundays or holidays, are delivered as special mail rather than permit them to remain in the office until the following regular delivery, regardless of whether or not they bear a special delivery stamp, postal officials announced today.

The regular special delivery fee is charged to the receiver in the event the parcel does not bear the stamp and in most cases the fee is forthcoming most willingly. Extra work is entailed at the receiving office when it necessitates the mailing of a letter to the sender telling what has been done and calling attention to the advisability of putting a special delivery stamp on parcels likely to arrive at their destination at such times.

Give Her the World's Champion Car

JUST two bright keys in a dainty jewel case! But no Christmas package ever held a greater treasure of happiness—for out in the drive stands a smart, trim Studebaker Commander—and those keys make it her own.

What pleasure you'll take in giving her this world-champion motor car—the car that climaxed its championship career by traveling 25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes! This dramatic run was made by strictly stock Studebaker Commanders under the supervision of the American Automobile Association. Nothing else on earth ever traveled so far so fast.

Neither she nor you may be interested in the high speed which The Commander is able to maintain for long distances. But you are interested in the sturdy design which made possible better than a mile a minute for a distance equivalent to a circuit of the world. Such stamina spells utmost reliability on your trips across town or across the continent. It means long life, low maintenance cost and superlative service.

There's justifiable pride that you and your wife will take in driving a car which has so conclusively demonstrated its ability as the "world's champion." You'll sense this pride when you step on the accelerator and flash ahead of the crowd; when you "zoom" up hills or "step-out" on the open highway.

And what joy to show The Commander to her friends, for its beauty of line and finish win instant admiration.

Drop in today and we'll give you the Keys. Her Commander will be at your door Christmas Eve or Christmas morning—whenever you say. Then no one's wife will have a happier Christmas than yours!

Bishops Cagers Wear Out Isaly Dairies and Win, 44 to 24

Coach Detrick Uses 14 Men; Three Points Separate Teams in Fourth Period

Griffin, Isaly Forward, Off Form; Penry, Applegett, Miller Look Good; Hinzler, Coyner, Berno and Seigenthaler Star for Wesleyan

BY TOM BUCHANAN
Sports Editor of The Star

AFTER running neck and neck for three quarters, Ohio Wesleyan University finally wore the Isaly Dairies out and won, 44 to 24. It was simply a case of 11 men playing six.

Coach Detrick brought eighteen men with him and had a fresh team on the floor at all times. He believed that the Dairies could have beaten any eight men the Bishops could have put on the floor. But the 14 men Detrick sent in to keep his team playing at top notch speed at all times, furnished too much opposition for the six non Isaly squad.

Dairies Rally
At that the Dairies held their own fairly well until early in the last quarter. With a minute or so played in the last period the score stood, 27 to 21 with the Bishops in front. The Dairies had cut down a 27 to 16 lead in the last few minutes of the third period but the terrible pace it took to do it and the fact that a fresh Wesleyan team took the floor at the quarter, were obstacles too great to overcome. The rally died out and for the rest of the game the Dairies were held scoreless while the Bishops rolled up 17 points.

After trailing, 7 to 6 at the end of the first quarter the Dairies went into a one point lead at 12 to 11 early in the second period. The lead was short-lived as Spunamore potted one. Minard led the score with a free shot but from then on until the rally in the third period, things went against the Dairies.

Griffin Off Form

Griffin, who started for the Dairies in the Kenton clash, was decidedly off form last night. Before two minutes of play had elapsed Griffin had missed three easy shots from immediately under the basket. They were not shots and there wasn't an opponent within 10 feet to hurry the shots. Later in the evening he had a number of tough luck shots that didn't add anything to his shooting average.

Penry got into something like his old stride last night, after looking none too good in earlier games. He shared scoring honors with Applegett at eight points. Applegett looked good in any of the three positions he played last night. Besides getting eight points he played at Griffin's forward, jumped center for Minard and stepped into Tachanien's guard.

Robbins, who recently returned to Marion and who had probably lost with the Dairies this winter, got in for a few minutes. He looked good just in spots, due probably to the fact that he was not in training.

Miller Best Guard
But the bright spots on the Isaly team haven't all been talked about yet. Miller, who played the defensive guard, was the best guard on the floor during the game. Of course, the fact that he played the stationary guard must be taken into consideration. Coyner, a Wesleyan guard, scored eight points, but as a defensive player Miller's equal wasn't seen last night.

Three men stood out on the Wesleyan team. They were Hinzler, Coyner and Berno. The former accounted for 12 points for the Bishops and the latter two scored eight each. Hinzler played a regular forward with the Bishops last year and is a dead shot from any point past the middle of the floor. Seigenthaler, a rangy well built center, took next scoring honors with six points. Seigenthaler as an All-state high school player teamed with "Tiny" Roth, a Bishop forward, went in the finals in the state high school tournament a few years back. Seigenthaler does the Horse Haggerty act of holding a basketball in either hand, ball down.

Eagles To Make First Appearance

IN brand new uniforms the Eagles basketball team will take the floor tonight against the Reichenbach Fords of Columbus. It will be the first game for the Eagles this season. It will be the first game for the club in fact. The team, however, has seen service before as the same players worked together last year on the Marion Steam Shovel team. All the players are well known to local fans.

The Fords are rated as one of the best semi-pro teams in central Ohio. Last year the outfit won from the Isaly Dairies and Zanesville to go to the finals in the central Ohio pro tournament staged in Columbus. A group of well known Columbus stars will come here tonight for the game.

For the Eagles, Hoberg and Roll will work at the forward positions. Schenck will jump center, and Bacon and Compton will be at the guards.

The game will start at 8:30 o'clock. It was not known this morning whether or not there would be a preliminary. Admission will be 50 cents. Coach Detrick from Ohio Wesleyan will referee the game.

The new uniforms will be purple and white with orange sweat shirts. Next week the Buffalo Lincolns will

GIFT OF $50,000 HOUSE TO BOBBY O. K. WITH RAMSEY

A. S. Golf Association Will Not Investigate Present to Champ

New York, Dec. 8.—Reports that the United States Golf Association would "look into" the matter of the recent presentation of a $50,000 home in Atlanta to Bobby Jones were denied with vigor today by Herbert H. Ramsey, official mouthpiece of the association. The reports had their inception in a story printed locally, purporting to have inside information to the effect that British authorities were inclined to frown upon the present because it smacked of commercialism and that American authorities, in self-defense, might be forced to make an investigation of the circumstances. Nothing could be further from the truth, according to Mr. Ramsey's statement to the writer. He said that he, personally, and so far as he knew, other officials of the Association as well were perfectly satisfied that the gift house fell well within the bounds of amateur ethics.

England Not Concerned

"I am satisfied, from our mutual experience, that England is content to preserve its own amateur ethics and to allow us to take care of our own," he declared. "Matters of this kind always have been settled to our mutual satisfaction without interference from the country not concerned. As to that, the golf association itself is not concerned, so far as I know, and neither can I say that I think there is anything to be settled."

The understanding the writer received about the $50,000 gift is that some of Jones' friends in Atlanta, of which he is believed to have a few, got together one fine morning and decided that their admiration of the young man had gone far enough without some evidence of intrinsic appreciation. This appears to have been Mr. Ramsey's understanding, too.

"I am informed that the gift was not made by the Chamber of Commerce nor by the city of Atlanta," he added. "Therefore, I fail to see this charge of commercialism in any other light than that of a misapprehension on the part of some person or persons who probably know nothing of sentiment in England."

It is not the purpose of the golf association to interfere with the acceptance of gifts, made at the instigation of private individuals. When you start doing that, you presume upon the freedom right of the average American citizen to enjoy Christmas. I, for one, am not going to attempt it."

Judge Landis Speaks

Commissioner Keneaw Mountain Landis was the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the minors held last night. He expressed the opinion that the National Association is enforcing the baseball rules in accordance with the rights of all to safeguard justice for all concerned.

"The laws and rules of the game are not enforced by hyper-technical construction," he declared, and added that from his observation "from an inside angle," he finds that the confidence of the public in the manner in which the national pastime is handled is completely justified.

Judson C. Francis, secretary of the Texas League talked at length of the confidence of the nation's kids in baseball, and Alvin M. Giesley, past national commander of the American Legion, opened the speaking by praising the clean sportsmanship found in baseball.

William Hawley Atwell, federal judge in the position formerly occupied by Judge Landis, was also present.

BUTLER MIDGETS TOPPLE AGOSTA

Win 21 to 16 in Preliminary Skirmish to Isaly Game

The Butler Midgets toppled the Agosta cagers, 21 to 16, last night in a preliminary skirmish to the Isaly Dairies-Ohio Wesleyan game. The game was fast and the outcome was not an established fact until the final whistle.

Both teams played good ball. The Midgets have a slick organization and should be good this winter. They have plenty of material. All members of the team are students of Harding High School.

Myers, Midget center, was high point scorer of the evening with four baskets and one free throw. Perry, at guard, played a great defensive game for the locals and was responsible for breaking up many of the clever passing attacks of the Agosta cagers.

Minor League Officials Make Annual Protest Against Major's Tactics

Make Kick, but Fail To Take Action To Remedy Situation; Deals Galore as Club Owners Meet in Dallas; Art Fletcher To Manage Indians

DALLAS, TEX., Dec. 8.—Recent recommendations of the committee on league presidents assigned to work out revisions to the constitution of the National Association of professional baseball leagues, are expected to be brought before the minor league convention in its "get away" session today.

That some comparatively important amendments will be made is the consensus of baseball men.

Most important of all probably will be an expression by the association in interpreting the major league agreement of 1920 as being a series year pact, whereby all leagues now a selective player draft will be allowed to legally withdraw next April or to force a new agreement in which they may be able to institute some of the clauses at which they have been hampering for the last several seasons.

Plan Worked Hardships
At the present, the Double-A leagues—the International, the American Association and the Pacific Coast league—and the Three Eye League, of class B, are the only ones not in the draft. It is claimed by the other circuits that the "rebels," particularly the Double-A's, allowed the majors to cream down their throats a modified draft a few years ago and that when they accepted it they violated all previous agreements and worked a decided hardship on their brother leagues.

The universal draft plan of E. S. Barnard, new president of the American League, is not expected to come before this convention.

President Mike H. Sexton of Rock Island, declared that he does not expect any business of a sensational or decided nature to come up at today's final session. In the words of the veteran minor league, who has been attending the convention for years, the minor leagues are "making their usual bowl that they are being lorded over by the majors, but they are taking no action to correct the alleged faults."

Akron Hoys—Team
John McInerney, manager of the Akron team in the new central league, said he had purchased Tom Benoit, catcher, from the Champion Port Smith club of the Western Association, and outfielder Brodie Thompson from Quiver of the Three Eye circuit. Shreveport sold shortstop George Distel to Macon, Ga., and Montgomery disposed of third baseman Polly Phelps to Nashville.

Outfielder Floyd Trecker, property of the Wichita Falls, Texas league club, was sold to Augusta, Georgia.

YANKEES WILLING TO RELEASE FLETCHER

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The New York Yankees will release Arthur Fletcher at any time if the one-time famous shortstop wishes to accept an offer to manage the Cleveland Indians. Fletcher, who acted as coach of the Yankees during the past season, is reported to have been named as the new Cleveland pilot by Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland club.

Fletcher is forty-one years old. He was born in Collinsville, Ill. Going to the New York Giants from the Dallas Club of the Texas League, he made a name for himself as one of the best shortstops in the majors. In 1920 Fletcher was traded to the Phillies and he changed that team from 1922 to 1926.

PRO GOLFERS HAVE RICH WINTER STAKES

Series of Southern Tournaments Carry $39,500 in Prizes

Miami, Fla., Dec. 8.—The professional golfer who nips his stride this winter will find a pot of gold at the end of the golfing rainbow in his annual tour of southern courses, which starts New Year's Day with the amateur-pro competition at Miami Beach and the Miami Beach open tournament on Jan. 2 and 3.

A survey of the southern money events for the winter season reveals that $39,500 has been promised in cash prizes for nine events to be played over a three-month period. It is predicted that the amount will be materially increased by other Florida cities which will be looking to the tournament of professional golf when they start play in the winter.

There is a list of winter open tournaments contemplated.

Jan. 1—Amateur-pro event at Miami Beach. Winner takes entry fees.

Jan. 2 and 3. Miami Beach open tournament, $3,000 cash prizes.

Jan. 6—Amateur-pro event at Miami Beach. Winner takes entry fees.

Jan. 7 and 8—Miami open tournament, $3,000 cash prizes.

West Coast open date and place unannounced, cash prize.

Florida open, date unannounced, $3,000 in cash.

March 1 to 7—International four ball match, Miami, $5,000 cash.

March 12 to 15—Tentative Nassau open, Bahamas, $5,000 cash.

Feb. 3 to 6—Texas open at San Antonio, $3,000.

March 19 to 20—North and south open at Pineburi, $2,500 cash.

Atlanta open, date unannounced, $12,000 in cash.

PAULINO ON TOUR

Basque Aiman To Go On Barnstorming Trip

New York, Dec. 8.—Paulino Vezudun, the much eliminated Basque heavyweight, has temporarily abandoned the local "boxing tour" and will go on a barnstorming tour. He will appear in Philadelphia on Dec. 26 and in Pittsburgh on Jan. 2, against opponents yet to be selected. He is also considering offers from Cleveland and Detroit promoters.

Paulino plans to return here in February, by which time his recent defeats may be forgotten by the fans. He claims that Promoter Tex Rickard will not sign him for any matches at present.

GOES TO BREWERS

Chicago, Dec. 8.—John Brillheart, left handed pitcher, has been sent to Minneapolis of the American Association in part payment for Pat Malone, right-handed hurler, officials of the Chicago Cubs announced today. The difference will be made up in cash.

LOANS UP TO $500

Three cents is a lot of money when added to the price of a cake of yeast but it is negligible and hardly missed when taken from your loan dollar to pay for money that prevented the loss of furniture, credit and happiness. The cost of a loan is small compared with the good it renders and the enjoyment it affords.

In time of need when your good name and personal belongings are at stake, you may depend upon The City Loan for courteous financial assistance at a cost you can easily afford. More than forty thousand families already know the advantages of obtaining money under The City Loan Plan for this same purpose of protection.

SAYS GRAVE IS THAT OF HIS RELATIVE

F. D. Fogleson Claims John Grimm, Buried Along Road, Was Great Grandfather

Actual facts regarding John Grimm and the circumstances surrounding his death and burial in Richland Township nearly a century ago were disclosed today following publication of a news report yesterday telling of steps taken by County Surveyor C. H. Leavens to protect Grimm's grave against damage.

F. D. Fogleson 570 Girard st., states that he is a great-grandson of Grimm, who was a pioneer settler in Richland Township. Grimm came to his death, Fogleson says, when he was hit by a falling tree while engaged in clearing land owned by him.

Grimm's grave now stands on the right-of-way of the East River-Carlisle road, about 11 miles southeast of Marion. At the time of Grimm's death and burial in 1823, Fogleson says, no roadway had been laid out and the grave was placed on Grimm's land.

Builds Culverts

Recently, while the East River-Carlisle road was being improved by construction of a macadam surface, County Surveyor Leavens found that the grave was on the line of the drainage ditch at the side of the road. To protect Grimm's last resting place and provide it with proper drainage, the surveyor had culverts constructed on both sides of the grave.

The enclosure of limestone slabs placed about the grave was installed in 1881 by Michael Grimm, brother of John Grimm, Fogleson says. Michael Grimm's last known place of residence was Plymouth, Ind.

Fogleson is believed to be the nearest kin of John Grimm now living.

Grimm, according to his great-grandson's account, was a man of considerable means when he emigrated to the United States and finally located in Marion County. Among his possessions were a corn grinder and copper kettle, and only one in Richland Township at that time.

PETIT JURY TO BE DISMISSED FRIDAY

Unusually Large Number of Cases Disposed of; Few Suits on Docket.

The petit jury which has been on duty for the full term of court since Sept. 12 will be dismissed following Friday's court session, Judge Schofield announced today. This will conclude jury trials for the full term, which has been one of the busiest court periods in recent years. An unusually large number of cases have been disposed of and the number of suits remaining on the docket at the close of the term will be considerably below the average.

Jury trials will not be resumed until Jan. 16, when the petit jury convenes for the next term of court. The grand jury will meet on Jan. 9 to consider criminal cases coming up from the lower courts.

The last jury trial scheduled for the full term will be in the damage suit of Sansetta against Laughman, set for Friday.

The suit of Walter L. Freeze and others against Clyde C. Smith and Harry J. Merchant, executors of the will of Burr Riechler, a Marion county case, will be tried before a Wyandot County jury beginning Dec. 10 on a change of venue order. This suit was brought by relatives of Burr Riechler, who seek to set aside the will.

During the remainder of the full term of court, all hearings will be before Judge Schofield in cases where juries are not requested by the litigants.

Suits Settled

Six suits for damages amounting to $17,000, brought against Charles Stouffer of Marion by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meyer, residents of Lima, and their four children, were settled yesterday and the cases dismissed. Although no record was made of the terms of settlement, it was reported that Stouffer paid the plaintiffs $1,500.

The suits, started several weeks ago in the court of common pleas, were the result of an unusual automobile accident which occurred on July 4, 1927, at the intersection of the Harding Highway and LaRue rd., about 12 miles east of Keeton.

A machine driven by Stouffer hit a Ford car at the road intersection, hurling the Ford from the highway on Mr. and Mrs. Meyer and their four children, who were sitting under a tree waiting for a bus, according to the account related in the plaintiffs' petitions. All six members of the family were seriously injured, it was asserted.

Settlement of the suits was effected through J. H. Sieber, Lima attorney representing the plaintiffs, and Mouser, Young & Mouser, local law firm representing Stouffer.

Sues for Divorce

William R. Kyle is plaintiff in a suit for divorce brought in the court of common pleas today against Ethel Kyle, in which he asks for a decree on grounds of gross neglect and extreme cruelty. The couple were married in Jackson, O., on May 1, 1926, and have no children.

Kyle charges that his wife cursed him, neglected her household duties, and was intimate with other men. The suit was filed through Homer E. Johnson, local attorney.

Judgment by Default

Judgment by default for $1,243.35 has been granted in the suit of the Shiloh Savings Bank against George H. Spragg and others.

FOUR MORE CARS ARE TAKEN, RECOVER TWO

Joyriders Continue Activities in City; Car Taken Tuesday Still Missing

Joyriders or automobile thieves continued their activities in Marion last night by taking four cars, two of which were recovered by the police this morning.

An Overland sedan belonging to Harold Blockman, 295 E. Georgetown, and which was stolen from State st. near Center st. between 8 and 10 o'clock last night and a Dodge sedan belonging to C. L. Rutherford, 227 S. High st., and which disappeared from in front of the Rutherford home at about the same time were recovered by the police this morning. Both cars had been driven but were not damaged.

A search for a Chrysler coach, the property of Mrs. J. W. Gardner, 245 S. Greenwood st., and a Pontiac coach belonging to D. A. Gurley, 632 Windsor st., which were included in the four taken, was being made by the police today.

The Gardner car which is described as carrying Ohio license 522-870 with a Cleveland plate and being painted grey with green trimmings, was taken from Church st. near the postoffice while the Pontiac coupe was taken from in front of 318 W. Church st. shortly after 7:30 o'clock. The Pontiac is described as bearing Ohio license 700-651 and equipped with disc wheels.

The Chevrolet coach belonging to Harry Gramer, 235 Blaine av., which was taken from the Erie roundhouse Tuesday night, had not been recovered yet today.

CENTRAL JUNIOR TO PLAY WALDO

Local's Prospects Darken as Richards Is Declared Out with Injuries

Central Junior High School's cage team will play its third game of the season Friday night when it meets Waldo High School at the Y. M. C. A. The game will start at 7:30 o'clock. Between 600 and 700 spectators are expected to attend the game. More than 400 Central season tickets have been sold and the team has a large following in last year's students.

Central's prospects of winning were given a severe blow with the announcement today that Captain Richards would probably not be able to play the entire game. Richards has been laid up with injuries since the game last week with the Harding Reserves.

In the two games played this year the Central team has split even. In the first game the outfit, nosed out the alumni for the first time in the history of Central athletics. The game last week was dropped to the Reserves.

At the forwards for Central will be Wright and Everett. Price will carry at the center position. At the guards will be Barr and Poul. George John Adr. son will referee the game.
